CWNP Certified Wireless Analysis Professional Sample Questions (Q66-Q71):

NEW QUESTION # 66

What is the difference between a Data frame and a QoS-Data frame?

- A. QoS Data frames include an 802.1Q VLAN tag
- B. QoS Data frames include a QoS control field
- C. QoS Data frames include a DSCP control field
- D. QoS Data frames include a QoS information element

Answer: B

Explanation:

The difference between a Data frame and a QoS-Data frame is that QoS Data frames include a QoS control field. A Data frame is a type of data frame that is used to carry user data or upper layer protocol data between STAs and APs. A QoS Data frame is a type of data frame that is used to carry user data or upper layer protocol data between STAs and APs that support QoS (Quality of Service) features. QoS features allow different types of traffic to be prioritized and handled differently according to their QoS requirements, such as delay, jitter, throughput, etc. QoS Data frames include a QoS control field in their MAC header, which contains information such as traffic identifier (TID), queue size (TXOP), acknowledgment policy (ACK), etc., that are used for QoS purposes. The other options are not correct, as they do not describe the difference between Data and QoS Data frames. QoS Data frames do not include a DSCP (Differentiated Services Code Point) control field, which is part of the IP header in the network layer, not the MAC header in the data link layer. QoS Data frames do not include a QoS information element (IE), which is part of some management frames that indicate QoS capabilities or parameters, not data frames. QoS Data frames do not include an 802.1 Q VLAN tag, which is part of some Ethernet frames that indicate VLAN membership or priority, not wireless frames. NEW QUESTION # 67

Which one of the following is an advantage of using display filters that is not an advantage of capture-time filters?

- A. They allow for focused analysis on just the packets of interest
- B. They only hide the packets from view and the filtered packets can be enabled for view later
- C. Multiple of them can be applied simultaneously
- D. Once created they are reusable for later captures

Answer: B

Explanation:

Display filters are applied after the capture is completed and they only hide the packets from view. The filtered packets are still present in the capture file and can be enabled for view later by changing or removing the display filter. This is an advantage over capture-time filters, which discard the packets that do not match the filter criteria and cannot be recovered later. References:

NEW QUESTION # 68

Which one of the following statements is not true concerning DTIMs?

- A. DTIM stands for Delivery Traffic Indication Map
- B. The DTIM interval can dictate when an STA will wake up to listen to beacon frames
- C. Every Beacon frame must contain a DTIM
- D. Buffered Broadcast and Multicast traffic will be transmitted following a DTIM

Answer: C

Explanation:

A DTIM is included only in specific Beacon frames according to the configured DTIM period. Not every Beacon contains a DTIM; only those Beacons whose count reaches zero include the DTIM field and trigger the delivery of buffered broadcast and multicast traffic.

NEW QUESTION # 69

You are using a laptop-based protocol analyzer to scan all channels and determine the basic configuration of the WLAN Basic Service Set in your facility. You are scanning all channels. All configured with default settings.

What can you change to cause the scan to run faster while still APs are capturing beacon frames on all the channels?

- A. Configure the scan time for channels to 300-500 ms
- B. Configure the fragmentation threshold to 1500 bytes
- C. Configure the scan time for channels to <100 ms
- D. Configure the RBW to more than 120 kHz

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 70

You are troubleshooting throughput problems for a WLAN cell. The cell is provisioned with an 802.11ac dual-band AP. Users connected with both 5 GHz and 2.4 GHz connections are reporting performance problems.

The AP settings are properly optimized. No interface issues have been detected (either co-channel interference or non-Wi-Fi interference) and the number of associated users is low.

What should you analyze to resolve the issue?

- A. The 5 GHz radio configuration
- B. The antennas used on the client devices
- C. the Ethernet uplink and the network infrastructure
- D. The 2.4 GHz radio configuration

Answer: C
