Salesforce B2B Commerce for Developers Accredited Professional Sample Questions (Q146-Q151):

NEW QUESTION # 146

How are variables bound when services use the ccServiceDao classto execute queries?

- A. String substitution
- B. Global variables
- C. Apex local variables
- D. Apex class variables

Answer: A

Explanation:

When services use the ccServiceDao class to execute queries, variables are bound by string substitution. This means that the query string contains placeholders for variables that are replaced by their values at runtime. For example, ccServiceDao.getQuery('SELECT Id FROM Account WHERE Name = :name') will replace :name with the value of the name variable.

NEW QUESTION # 147

A developer has created a custom Lightning web component to display on the Product Detail page in the store. When the developer goes to add the component to the page in Experience Builder, it is missing from the list of custom components.

Which XML fragment should the developer include in the component's configuration XML file to ensure the custom component is available to add to the page?

- A.
- B.
- C.
- D.

Answer: D

Explanation:

The XML fragment that the developer should include in the component's configuration XML file to ensure the custom component is available to add to the page is option B. Option B uses the <targets> tag to specify where the component can be used in an app. The <targets> tag contains a list of <target> tags, each of which defines a valid target for the component. The value of the <target> tag for the Product Detail page in the store is lightningCommunity__RecordPage, which means that the component can be used on any record page in a Lightning community. Option A is incorrect because it uses an invalid value for the <target> tag. There is no such target as lightningCommunity__ProductDetailPage. Option C is incorrect because it uses an invalid syntax for the <targets> tag. The <targets> tag should not have any attributes, such as isVisible. Option D is incorrect because it uses an invalid syntax for the <target> tag. The <target> tag should not be self-closing, but rather have a closing tag (</target>). NEW QUESTION # 148

How do the REST APIs in Salesforce B2B Commerce support pass-through parameter handling?

- A. An exception is generated for unknown API keys
- B. Parameters are filtered out before the request is processed
- C. Parameters are passed through the service handlers
- D. Parameters are separated, but unused

Answer: C

Explanation:

The REST APIs in Salesforce B2B Commerce support pass-through parameter handling by passing parameters through the service handlers. This means that any parameters that are not recognized by the REST API framework will be passed to the service handler class that implements the API logic. The service handler class can then use these parameters for custom logic or validation.

NEW QUESTION # 149

Where is the API-based record creation generally handled in Salesforce B2B Commerce?

- A. Data creation is not allowed
- B. In the methods available in extension hooks
- C. Logic classes that implement the business logic for create operations
- D. The service-layer responsible for the entity

Answer: D

Explanation:

The API-based record creation is generally handled in the service-layer responsible for the entity in Salesforce B2B Commerce. The service-layer is a set of classes that provide methods for interacting with the data layer and performing business logic. Each entity, such as product, cart, or order, has a corresponding service class that handles the create, read, update, and delete operations for that entity. For example, `ccrz.ccServiceProduct` provides methods for creating and retrieving products. Salesforce B2B Commerce and D2C Commerce Developer Guide, Service Classes

NEW QUESTION # 150

A developer used slots to pass content from one Lightning Web Component to another. How can they access the DOM for what was passed to those slots?

- A. Call `this.querySelector()` and `this.querySelectorAll()`
- B. Call `this.querySelector()` passing an id
- C. Call `this.template.querySelector()` and `this.template.querySelectorAll()`
- D. Call `this.template.querySelector()` passing an id

Answer: C

Explanation:

In Lightning Web Components, to access the DOM elements within the component's template, including those passed into slots, developers use `this.template.querySelector()` and `this.template.querySelectorAll()`. These methods allow for querying the component's local DOM. Direct DOM manipulation or querying outside the component's template is discouraged to maintain component encapsulation and security. For more information, see the Salesforce LWC documentation on accessing the DOM: Salesforce LWC DOM Access Documentation.
