CompTIA Data+ Exam (2025) Sample Questions (Q24-Q29):

NEW QUESTION # 24

Which of the following best describes an assessment a data analyst would use to validate that the number of records in a dataset matches the expected results?

- A. Stress test
- B. Source control
- C. Unit test
- D. Health check

Answer: C

Explanation:

This question pertains to the Data Governance domain, focusing on data quality validation techniques. The task is to validate that the number of records matches expectations, which requires a specific type of assessment.

* Source control (Option A): Source control (e.g., Git) manages code versions, not dataset validation.

* Unit test (Option B): A unit test checks a specific component of a process, such as verifying that the number of records in a dataset matches the expected count, making it the best fit.

* Stress test (Option C): Stress tests evaluate system performance under load, not record counts.

* Health check (Option D): A health check monitors system status but isn't specific to validating record counts.

The DA0-002 Data Governance domain includes "data quality control concepts," and unit tests are a standard method for validating specific data outcomes like record counts.

NEW QUESTION # 25

Which of the following elements is the most important to include in a dashboard for internal technical audiences?

- A. Dynamic features
- B. Company branding
- C. Methodology section
- D. Key performance indicators

Answer: D

Explanation:

This question pertains to the Visualization and Reporting domain, focusing on dashboard design for specific audiences. Internal technical audiences (e.g., data analysts, IT staff) need actionable, data-driven insights.

* Methodology section (Option A): Methodology is important for research reports, not dashboards, especially for technical audiences who prioritize data.

* Dynamic features (Option B): Dynamic features (e.g., interactivity) are useful but not the most critical element for technical audiences.

* Key performance indicators (Option C): KPIs provide critical metrics (e.g., system uptime, error rates) that technical audiences need to monitor and act on, making this the most important element.

* Company branding (Option D): Branding is more relevant for external audiences, not internal technical ones.

The DA0-002 Visualization and Reporting domain emphasizes "translating business requirements to form the appropriate visualization," and KPIs are essential for technical dashboards.

NEW QUESTION # 26

A manager wants a report that contains the days off for each direct report. The manager needs this report to always be up-to-date with the latest data. Which of the following describes the refresh frequency that the manager is requesting?

- A. Real-time
- B. Ad hoc
- C. Snapshot
- D. Dynamic

Answer: A

Explanation:

This question pertains to the Visualization and Reporting domain, focusing on report refresh frequencies.

The manager needs the report to always be up-to-date, implying continuous data updates.

* Real-time (Option A): Real-time refresh frequency ensures the report reflects the latest data as soon as it changes, which matches the requirement to "always be up-to-date."

* Ad hoc (Option B): Ad hoc reports are generated on-demand, not continuously updated.

* Snapshot (Option C): A snapshot captures data at a specific point in time, not suitable for always being up-to-date.

* Dynamic (Option D): Dynamic reports allow interactivity, but the term doesn't specifically imply real-time updates.

The DA0-002 Visualization and Reporting domain includes "the appropriate visualization in the form of a report" with delivery methods, and real-time refresh frequency ensures the report is always current.

NEW QUESTION # 27

A data company needs a visualization that shows the availability zones from the last ten years and any future availability zones that the company will be using in the next five years. Which of the following is the most appropriate visualization to display this information?

- A. Bar chart
- B. Pie chart
- C. Map
- D. Mosaic plot

Answer: C

Explanation:

This question falls under the Visualization and Reporting domain of CompTIA Data+ DA0-002, focusing on selecting the appropriate visualization for a specific dataset. The task is to show availability zones over a 15-year period (past and future), which involves a geographical element since availability zones are typically location-based.

* Bar chart (Option A): Bar charts are good for comparing categorical data but don't effectively show geographical locations or time-based trends across zones.

* Mosaic plot (Option B): Mosaic plots display relationships between categorical variables, not suitable for geographical or time-series data.

* Map (Option C): A map can display availability zones geographically, with annotations or layers to show changes over time (past 10 years and future 5 years), making it the most appropriate visualization.

* Pie chart (Option D): Pie charts show proportions of a whole, not suitable for geographical or time-based data.

The DA0-002 Visualization and Reporting domain emphasizes "translating business requirements to form the appropriate visualization," and a map is the best choice for displaying geographical availability zones over time.

NEW QUESTION # 28

An analyst is building a reporting deck. The deck must include tracking and visualizing metrics and row-level security. Which of the following actions should the analyst take after meeting all of the requirements?

- A. Explain the desired level of reporting detail.
- B. Present an analysis of the data.
- C. Find out the project due date.
- D. Show a mock-up to the team.

Answer: D

Explanation:

This question pertains to the Visualization and Reporting domain, focusing on the process of building a reporting deck. After meeting requirements (tracking metrics, visualizing data, and row-level security), the next step involves validation with stakeholders.

* Show a mock-up to the team (Option A): Creating a mock-up and presenting it to the team ensures alignment on design and functionality before finalizing, which is a standard next step in report development.

* Explain the desired level of reporting detail (Option B): This should have been done earlier during requirements gathering, not after meeting them.

* Present an analysis of the data (Option C): Data analysis might inform the deck, but the task focuses on building the deck, not presenting analysis.

* Find out the project due date (Option D): The due date should have been established earlier in the project planning phase.

The DA0-002 Visualization and Reporting domain includes "translating business requirements to form the appropriate visualization," and showing a mock-up ensures the reporting deck meets stakeholder expectations.
