ECCouncil Certified Ethical Hacker Exam (CEHv13) Sample Questions (Q395-Q400):

NEW QUESTION # 395

A "Server-Side Includes" attack refers to the exploitation of a web application by injecting scripts in HTML pages or executing arbitrary code remotely.

Which web-page file type, if it exists on the web server, is a strong indication that the server is vulnerable to this kind of attack?

- A. .html
- B. .cms
- C. .rss
- D. .stm

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 396

Firewalk has just completed the second phase (the scanning phase), and a technician receives the output shown below. What conclusions can be drawn based on these scan results?

TCP port 21 no response

TCP port 22 no response

TCP port 23 Time-to-live exceeded

- A. The scan on port 23 was able to make a connection to the destination host prompting the firewall to respond with a TTL error
- B. The firewall itself is blocking ports 21 through 23 and a service is listening on port 23 of the target host
- C. The lack of response from ports 21 and 22 indicate that those services are not running on the destination server
- D. The scan on port 23 passed through the filtering device. This indicates that port 23 was not blocked at the firewall

Answer: D

Explanation:

Firewalk, covered in CEH v13 Module 03, is a firewall analysis tool that uses TTL-limited probes to determine which ports are allowed through a filtering device (firewall/router).

If a Time-to-Live Exceeded message is received, it means the packet made it past the firewall and was stopped before reaching the target host.

No response typically means filtered or blocked.

Therefore:

Ports 21 and 22 are filtered by the firewall.

Port 23 triggered a TTL Exceeded, meaning it passed through the firewall, and likely hit a router or was dropped due to TTL=0 before reaching the host.

NEW QUESTION # 397

You are tasked to configure the DHCP server to lease the last 100 usable IP addresses in subnet to. 1.4.0/23.

Which of the following IP addresses could be leased as a result of the new configuration?

- A. 10.1.5.200
- B. 210.1.55.200
- C. 10.1.4.156
- D. 10.1.4.254

Answer: A

Explanation:

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Subnetwork>

As we can see, we have an IP address of 10.1.4.0 with a subnet mask of /23. According to the question, we need to determine which IP address will be included in the range of the last 100 IP addresses.

The available addresses for hosts start with 10.1.4.1 and end with 10.1.5.254. Now you can clearly see that the last 100 addresses include the address 10.1.5.200.

NEW QUESTION # 398

- A. Packet Sniffers operate on Layer 2 of the OSI model.
- B. Packet Sniffers operate on both Layer 2 & Layer 3 of the OSI model.
- C. Packet Sniffers operate on the Layer 1 of the OSI model.
- D. Packet Sniffers operate on Layer 3 of the OSI model.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 399

While scanning with Nmap, Patin found several hosts which have the IP ID of incremental sequences. He then decided to conduct:

`nmap -Pn -p- -si kiosk.adobe.com www.riaa.com` kiosk.adobe.com is the host with incremental IP ID sequence. What is the purpose of using "-si" with Nmap?

- A. Conduct silent scan
- B. Conduct ICMP scan
- C. Conduct IDLE scan
- D. Conduct stealth scan

Answer: C

Explanation:

Once a suitable zombie has been found, performing a scan is easy. Simply specify the zombie hostname to the -SI option and Nmap does the rest. Example 5.19 shows an example of Ereet scanning the Recording Industry Association of America by bouncing an idle scan off an Adobe machine named Kiosk.

Example 5.19. An idle scan against the RIAA

nmap -Pn -p- -SI kiosk.adobe.com www.riaa.com
