IAPP Certified Information Privacy Professional/United States (CIPP/US) Sample Questions (Q89-Q94):

NEW QUESTION # 89

Which of the following describes the most likely risk for a company developing a privacy policy with standards that are much higher than its competitors?

- A. Being more closely scrutinized for any breaches of policy
- B. Having a security system failure
- C. Getting accused of discriminatory practices
- D. Attracting skepticism from auditors

Answer: A

Explanation:

A company that develops a privacy policy with standards that are much higher than its competitors may face the risk of being more closely scrutinized for any breaches of policy by regulators, customers, media, or other stakeholders. This is because the company sets a higher expectation for its privacy practices and may be held to a higher standard of accountability and transparency. If the company fails to comply with its own policy or experiences a data breach, it may face more severe consequences, such as reputational damage, loss of trust, legal liability, or regulatory sanctions. NEW QUESTION # 90

Which of the following would NOT constitute an exception to the authorization requirement under the HIPAA Privacy Rule?

- A. Disclosing health information needed to pay a third party billing administrator.
- B. Disclosing health information needed to treat a medical emergency.
- C. Disclosing health information to file a child abuse report.
- D. Disclosing health information for public health activities.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Among the options provided, disclosing health information needed to pay a third party billing administrator would NOT constitute an exception to the authorization requirement under the HIPAA Privacy Rule. Generally, when disclosing health information for payment and healthcare operations purposes, specific patient authorization is not required. However, this exception applies primarily to disclosures made to healthcare providers, health plans, and other entities directly involved in the payment or healthcare operations process.

NEW QUESTION # 91

SCENARIO

Please use the following to answer the next QUESTION

When there was a data breach involving customer personal and financial information at a large retail store, the company's directors were shocked. However, Roberta, a privacy analyst at the company and a victim of identity theft herself, was not. Prior to the breach, she had been working on a privacy program report for the executives. How the company shared and handled data across its organization was a major concern. There were neither adequate rules about access to customer information nor procedures for purging and destroying outdated data. In her research, Roberta had discovered that even low-level employees had access to all of the company's customer data, including financial records, and that the company still had in its possession obsolete customer data going back to the 1980s.

Her report recommended three main reforms. First, permit access on an as-needs-to-know basis. This would mean restricting employees' access to customer information to data that was relevant to the work performed. Second, create a highly secure database for storing customers' financial information (e.g., credit card and bank account numbers) separate from less sensitive information. Third, identify outdated customer information and then develop a process for securely disposing of it.

When the breach occurred, the company's executives called Roberta to a meeting where she presented the recommendations in her report. She explained that the company having a national customer base meant it would have to ensure that it complied with all relevant state breach notification laws. Thanks to Roberta's guidance, the company was able to notify customers quickly and within the specific timeframes set by state breach notification laws.

Soon after, the executives approved the changes to the privacy program that Roberta recommended in her report. The privacy program is far more effective now because of these changes and, also, because privacy and security are now considered the responsibility of every employee.

What could the company have done differently prior to the breach to reduce their risk?

- A. Communicated requests for changes to users' preferences across the organization and with third parties.
- B. Honored the promise of its privacy policy to acquire information by using an opt-in method.
- C. Looked for any persistent threats to security that could compromise the company's network.
- D. Implemented a comprehensive policy for accessing customer information.

Answer: D

- C. Maine
- D. New York
