NEW QUESTION # 50

A software development organization has a very traditional way of working that no longer meets their market needs. They currently manage all budgets via their development and operations business units. They want to change so that they can develop and deploy solutions rapidly in response to constantly changing market needs.

How should they change their funding model to support this?

- A. Switch 10 funding teams and value streams
- B. Provide additional funding via the research and development budget
- C. Provide additional funding to development and operations
- D. Switch to funding programmes and projects

Answer: A

Explanation:

Switching to funding teams and value streams is the best way to change their funding model to support their objective of developing and deploying solutions rapidly in response to constantly changing market needs. Funding teams and value streams means allocating budgets based on the value delivered by cross-functional teams working on end-to-end processes that create value for customers.
