Salesforce Certified B2C Commerce Architect Sample Questions (Q45-Q50):

NEW QUESTION # 45

A client receives multiple feeds from third parties on the same SFTP location:

- * Product prices (sftp: prod/prices)
- * Stores information (sftp: prod/stores;
- * Product information (sftp: prod/catalog)
- * Categories information (sftp: prod/marketing)
- * Content (sftp: prod/marketing)

Some of the feeds are placed on sftp multiple times a day, as the information is updated in the source system.

The Architect decides to have only two jobs:

- * One that checks and downloads available feeds every hour
- * One that imports the files from Webdav once a day before the data replication, using the standards steps available in the Job Framework Which design is correct for the import Job, taking the steps scope in consideration?

- A. - four sibling flows execute steps in parallel: import products, stores, prices, content- fifth flow executes: import categories- last flow executes steps in sequence: reindex
- B. -Four sibling flows execute steps in parallel: import products, stores, price, content-last flow executes steps in sequence: import:categories, reindex
- C. - four sibling flows execute steps in parallel: import products, stores, prices, content- last flow executes steps in sequence import categories, reindex
- D. - three sibling flows import steps in parallel: import products, stores, prices- fourth flow executes: import categories- last flow executes steps in sequence: reindex, import content

Answer: C

Explanation:

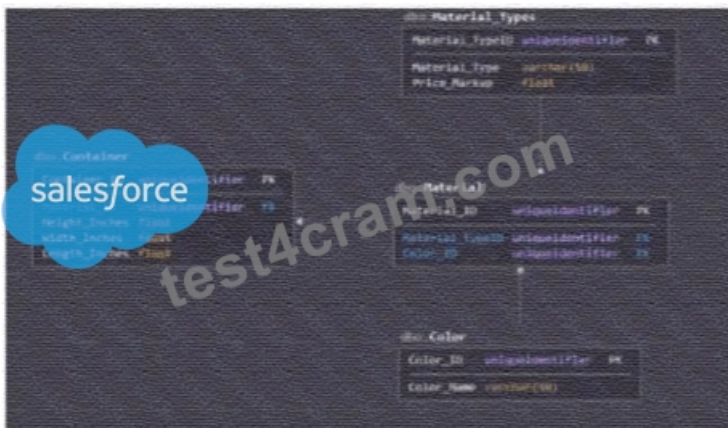

This design maximizes efficiency and concurrency. By having the jobs that import products, stores, prices, and content run in parallel, the system can handle multiple data streams simultaneously, reducing total processing time. The sequential execution of importing categories followed by reindexing ensures that all new and updated information is properly indexed and available for site use, following the completion of the import of more frequently updated data. This order respects dependencies between steps and aligns with best practices for handling complex data workflows in B2C Commerce environments.

NEW QUESTION # 46

The Client wants to offer custom made container products on its new B2C Commerce storefront. The Client provided two business requirements.

- * Customer can specify container length, width, and height.
- * Customer can specify the material that the container is made of.

The Client also provided the Architect a current data schema (shown below) for reference while preparing the technical documentation.

Which two gaps between the requirements and the data schema should the Architect discuss with the Client?
Choose 2 answers

- A. The data schema includes unique identifiers for material and color fields, but neither are reflected in the business requirements.
- B. The data schema includes a Color_ID field, but there isn't a business requirement to allow the customer to specify container color.
- C. The data schema includes an implied structure that the customer's choices should be captured as custom objects, but there isn't a business requirement to do so
- D. The data schema includes a material Price_Markup field, but there isn't a business requirement to factor the material cost into the final price calculation.

Answer: A,B

Explanation:

The provided data schema includes several fields that do not match the stated business requirements, which focus on the custom dimensions and materials of the containers:

* Option A: The inclusion of unique identifiers for materials and color fields in the data schema suggests a level of detail and structure around these attributes that is not reflected in the business requirements. If the business does not require tracking or differentiating materials beyond just naming them, this might be unnecessarily complex.

* Option D: The data schema includes a Color_ID field, which implies the ability to specify the color of the container. However, the business requirements do not mention color as a customization option available to customers. This discrepancy needs to be addressed to ensure that the database design aligns with actual business needs.

NEW QUESTION # 47

The Client plans to deploy a new payment provider and Order Management System on its existing B2C Commerce website. They have asked an Architect to advise which environment it should use to conduct load testing of its new integrations.

Which environment should be used as the ideal environment for this kind of load test?

- A. The Production instance of the existing Realm.
- B. The Development Instance of the existing Realm.
- C. The Development Instance of a rental Realm.
- D. The Production Instance of a rental Realm.

Answer: B

Explanation:

For conducting load testing of new integrations with a payment provider and Order Management System, it is recommended to use the Development Instance of the existing Realm (Option B). This approach ensures that any issues found during testing do not affect the live production environment, while still allowing tests to be conducted in an environment that mirrors the production setup as closely as possible. This minimizes the risk of disruptive downtime or customer-facing errors when the integration goes live.

NEW QUESTION # 48

A Client has automated builds that deploy the code; however, recent builds started failing with compilation issues, which are not reproducible in developer's environment.

What first step needs to be taken to identify and fix the issue?

- A. Clean up build server work space and run job again.
- B. Recreate the job in the build server to verify compilation issues.
- C. Verify the modules versions used to generate the code.
- D. Verify the generated JavaScript and CSS for the build.

Answer: A

Explanation:

When facing build failures that are not reproducible in developers' environments, a common and effective first step is to clean up the build server workspace (Answer A). This action clears any residual files, settings, or data that might be influencing the build process and causing discrepancies between local and server builds. By resetting the workspace to a clean state, it helps ensure that the build process is starting from a consistent base, potentially resolving issues caused by stale data or corrupted build artifacts. This step often resolves hidden configuration or environment-specific issues that are not immediately apparent in the code or module versions.

NEW QUESTION # 49

The following promotions are configured with no exclusivity (can be combined with any other promotion) in a - 1 month campaign:

- * Free correct- in -store shipping
- * 20% accessories products discount, applies for all customers
- * $5 off coupon based discount, sent to a selected group of customers

The combination of above promotions allows customers to get 16 socks for free in store. This was unintended, and the Client is considering disabling the coupon. The Client is concerned about a potential spike in the number of Call Center calls from customers who had the coupon code added to their baskets before it was disabled. As basket lifetime is set to 30 days for all customers, this can continue for the full length of the campaign.

What solutions should the Architect suggest to keep the Call Center calls to a minimum?

- A. Disable the coupon code. Email all the customers to not use the coupon code in their baskets.
- B. Disable the coupon code. Reduce the basket lifetime in Business Manager to expire some of the existing baskets
- C. Disable the coupon code. Clear the production cache from the Business Manager to clear existing baskets.
- D. Disable the coupon code. Restart the production instance from control Center to clear existing baskets.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Reducing the basket lifetime is a strategic approach to minimizing the impact of disabling a promotional coupon. This action will cause baskets that may still contain the now-disabled coupon to expire sooner, thereby reducing the potential volume of calls to the Call Center from customers inquiring about the coupon.

This method also avoids the drastic measure of clearing all existing baskets or restarting the production instance, which could disrupt user experience and lead to further customer dissatisfaction.
