NEW QUESTION # 146

While registering an Always on Availability Group database, an administrator selects the following option:

Multiple Databases as a Group with One Time Machine

Which statement is true regarding this chosen option?

- A. Point in Time Clones are not supported by Database Groups.
- B. PITR-based SLAs are not supported for database groups.
- C. PITR-based SLAs are supported for database groups containing mixed Recovery Model.
- D. PITR-based SLAs are not supported for database groups containing mixed Recovery Model

Answer: D

Explanation:

Nutanix Database Automation (NCP-DB) introduces the concept of MS SQL Server database groups, which allows multiple databases running in the same database instance to be grouped as one Time Machine entity. This applies to both single DB Server

VM setups, standalone databases, as well as to Availability Group databases. However, it does not support Point In Time Recovery (PITR)-based Service Level Agreements (SLAs) for database groups containing mixed Recovery Models. This means that if the databases within the group have different recovery models, PITR-based SLAs cannot be applied to the group as a whole.

NEW QUESTION # 147

An administrator has received a request to clone a source production database to an existing development server. Which two actions must be taken to complete this task?

- A. The development server must be registered by Era in order to receive the clone.
- B. The development server must be registered by Era and authorized to host clones from the Time Machine.
- C. The development server must be authorized for the database Time Machine.
- D. The development server must have the IP and credentials provided during cloning.

Answer: A,D

Explanation:

According to the Nutanix Database Automation (NCP-DB) Learning documents, to clone a source production database to an existing development server, the following actions must be taken:

A). The development server must be registered by Era in order to receive the clone. This is because Nutanix Era is a database management tool that manages the lifecycle of databases and their copies. Registering the development server with Era allows it to manage the database on that server.

D). The development server must have the IP and credentials provided during cloning. This is necessary for Era to access the development server and perform the cloning operation. The IP address and credentials are used to establish a connection to the development server. Without these details, Era would not be able to access the server and perform the cloning operation.
