CompTIA Cloud+ (CV0-004) Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q147-Q152):

NEW QUESTION # 147

A critical security patch is required on a network load balancer in a public cloud. The organization has a major sales conference next week, and the Chief Executive Officer does not want any interruptions during the demonstration of an application behind the load balancer. Which of the following approaches should the cloud security engineer take?

- A. Apply the security patch after the event.
- B. Ask the upper management team to approve an emergency patch window.
- C. Ask the management team to delay the conference.
- D. Apply the security patch immediately before the conference.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Given the critical nature of the patch and the upcoming major sales conference, the cloud security engineer should seek approval for an emergency patch window. This approach balances the need for security with the business requirement of no interruptions during the conference.

NEW QUESTION # 148

A cloud solutions architect needs to have consistency between production, staging, and development environments. Which of the following options will best achieve this goal?

- A. Using Jenkins agents in different environments
- B. Using Grafana in each environment
- C. Using Terraform templates with environment variables
- D. Using the ELK stack in each environment

Answer: C

Explanation:

Terraform templates with environment variables can ensure consistency across different environments such as production, staging, and development. Terraform allows for infrastructure as code, which can be used to define and maintain infrastructure with consistency.

NEW QUESTION # 149

A cloud engineer is in charge of deploying a platform in an IaaS public cloud. The application tracks the state using session cookies, and there are no affinity restrictions. Which of the following will help the engineer reduce monthly expenses and allow the application to provide the service?

- A. Reserved resources
- B. Dedicated host
- C. Resource metering
- D. Pay-as-you-go model

Answer: D

Explanation:

A pay-as-you-go model would be beneficial for the cloud engineer because it allows the application to be scaled based on demand, reducing monthly expenses since costs are only incurred for the resources actually used. Since there are no affinity restrictions and the application uses session cookies for state tracking, the pay-as-you-go model can handle fluctuating workloads without the need to pay for unused reserved resources or dedicated hosts. #### NEW QUESTION # 150

Which of the following network types allows the addition of new features through the use of network function virtualization?

- A. Local area network
- B. Software-defined network
- C. Storage area network
- D. Wide area network

Answer: B

Explanation:

A Software-Defined Network (SDN) is a network approach that allows the addition of new features through software configurations rather than hardware updates, making use of network function virtualization (NFV). NFV decouples network functions from proprietary hardware appliances, so they can run in software, which aligns with the flexibility offered by SDN. #### NEW QUESTION # 151

A highly scored negative risk causes a risk trigger, but the issue has not started yet. Which of the following is the next step the project team should take?

- A. Assign a risk owner
- B. Perform a work-around
- C. Execute the contingency plan
- D. Escalate to senior management

Answer: C

Explanation:

When a risk trigger is detected, the risk hasn't yet turned into an issue, but the conditions indicate it may happen. At this stage, the project team should execute the contingency plan that was pre-developed during risk planning. Assigning a risk owner happens earlier in the planning stage, and work-arounds are used only for unplanned risks. Escalation is only needed if the contingency cannot address the risk.
