- A. The operation is denied due to conflicting policies.

NEW QUESTION # 14

In Oracle Cloud Infrastructure (OCI), bare metal instances provide customers with direct access to the underlying hardware. To mitigate security risks when a customer terminates a bare metal instance, OCI utilizes Root-of-Trust hardware.

What is the primary function of the Root-of-Trust hardware in this context?

- A. It guarantees complete isolation between customer workloads on different instances.
- B. It eliminates the need for hypervisors, reducing the potential attack surface.
- C. It automatically encrypts data at rest on the bare metal instance.

An OCI administrator notices that a compute instance running in the production compartment is unable to create Object Storage buckets using the OCI CLI command:

"NotAuthorizedOrNotFound: You are not authorized to perform this action." The administrator verifies that the instance has Internet access and can reach OCI endpoints.

What then could be causing the issue?

- A. The instance is using the wrong OCI CLI authentication method.
- B. The bucket name is already in use, causing a conflict.
- C. The instance is not part of any Dynamic Group or the matching rule is incorrect.
