- A. Monster
- B. Helper
- C. Challenge
- D. Victory

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 153

Which step should a business analyst take to establish credibility and convey empathy with stakeholders during discovery sessions for a new Experience site?

- A. Describe work with other companies that has solved similar problem.
- B. Ensure the workshop schedule considers time zone and language differences.
- C. Reiterate the project objectives and the KPIs that will be tracked.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The best practice for establishing credibility and conveying empathy with stakeholders during discovery sessions is to ensure the workshop schedule considers time zone and language differences. This shows respect and sensitivity to the stakeholders' preferences and needs, and helps to avoid potential misunderstandings or conflicts. It also helps to build rapport and trust with the stakeholders, and encourages their participation and engagement. The other options are either irrelevant or ineffective. Option A does not address the stakeholders' needs or expectations, and may come across as boastful or arrogant. Option C does not convey empathy or understanding, and may be too repetitive or boring. NEW QUESTION # 154

A business analyst (BA) at Universal Containers has been assigned to a Salesforce project that will have an impact on more than 5,000 office locations across the globe. The BA needs to identify the people who can describe the business problem and provide detailed requirements.

Which document should the BA use?

- A. RACI chart
- B. User stories
- C. Stakeholder analysis

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation

The document that the business analyst should use to identify the people who can describe the business problem and provide detailed requirements is stakeholder analysis. Stakeholder analysis is a technique that identifies and evaluates the people who have an interest in or influence on a project or initiative. It can help the business analyst understand who are the key stakeholders, what are their roles and responsibilities, what are their needs and expectations, how they communicate and collaborate, etc. A RACI chart is a document that defines and clarifies the roles and responsibilities of different stakeholders in relation to specific tasks or deliverables. It can help the business analyst manage stakeholder expectations and avoid confusion or conflicts. A user story is a document that captures a requirement or feature from an end user's perspective. It can help the business analyst communicate what needs to be done and why it matters. References:

NEW QUESTION # 155

The business analyst (BA) at Northern Trail Outfitters needs to create a current state process map for a Service Cloud implementation with its retail division. The BA needs a simple diagramming notation for the process map that is applicable across all industries, provides context for metrics and management decisions, and supports regulatory considerations.

Which diagramming notation should the BA use for the process map?

- A. Unified Modeling Language (UML)
- B. Universal Process Notation (UPN)
- C. Business Process Modeling Notation (BPMN)

Answer: B

Explanation:

This answer selects Universal Process Notation (UPN) as the diagramming notation that the BA should use for the process map. UPN is a simple and standardized way of creating process maps, using only four symbols: activity, decision, start/end, and annotation. UPN can help the BA create a process map that is applicable across all industries, provides context for metrics and management decisions, and supports regulatory considerations. References:

NEW QUESTION # 156

A business analyst (BA) is in the process of documenting requirements. The BA wrote the following user story:

"As a sales team manager, I want the ability to access reports on Sales Cloud to evaluate if the team's daily activities are meeting the set goals." Which acceptance criteria is most appropriate for this user story?

- A. Able to click the Run button on sales reports
- B. Able to monitor the sales team's performance
- C. Able to view the sales team's reports

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation

Acceptance criteria are statements that define how to verify that a user story is completed and meets the user's expectations. They should be aligned with the user's goal rather than prescribing how to achieve it so that they do not limit creativity or innovation in finding solutions. Acceptance criteria should also be small and testable so that they can be easily verified by using techniques such as scenarios or test cases. The acceptance criterion

"able to monitor the sales team's performance" is most appropriate for this user story because it describes what outcome should be achieved by accessing reports on Sales Cloud (the why part of the user story). The acceptance criterion "able to click the Run button on sales reports" is not appropriate because it includes solution information rather than focusing on what needs to be achieved by accessing reports on Sales Cloud (the what part of the user story). The acceptance criterion "able to view the sales team's reports" is not appropriate because it is too vague and does not specify what kind of reports or what information should be displayed.
