- B. The ALG uses software processes for managing specific protocols.
- C. The ALG uses software that is used by a single TCP session using the same port numbers as the application.
- D. The ALG contains protocols that use one application session for each TCP session.

Answer: B

Explanation:

The statement that defines the function of an Application Layer Gateway (ALG) is: The ALG uses software processes for managing specific protocols. An ALG is a security component that operates at the application layer (layer 7) of the OSI model and handles data associated with certain application protocols, such as SIP, FTP, RTSP, etc. An ALG acts as a proxy or intermediary between the client and the server applications and performs various functions, such as address and port translation, resource allocation, application response control, and synchronization of data and control traffic. An ALG can also inspect and modify the application payload to enable firewall or NAT traversal, prevent spoofing or DoS attacks, or enforce granular security policies based on application-specific commands. Reference: = Application-level gateway - Wikipedia, What Is an Application Layer Gateway (ALG)? | F5, What is ALG

NEW QUESTION # 103

What are two requirements for enabling AppQoE? (Choose two.)

- A. You need to configure AppQoE for reverse traffic.
- B. You need an APPID feature license.
- C. You need two SRX Series or MX Series device endpoints.
- D. You need two SRX Series device endpoints.

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

AppQoE is a feature that enables you to monitor and optimize the quality of experience for applications on your network. It uses application-aware routing and dynamic path selection to choose the best path for each application based on predefined or custom SLA profiles. AppQoE also provides visibility and reporting on application performance and network conditions.

Two requirements for enabling AppQoE are:

You need two SRX Series or MX Series device endpoints: AppQoE can be configured between two SRX Series device endpoints or between an SRX Series device and an MX Series device in a hub-and-spoke or full mesh topology. The devices must run the same version of Junos OS and have the same AppQoE configuration.

You need an APPID feature license: AppQoE requires an APPID feature license to be installed on the SRX Series device. The APPID feature license enables application identification and classification, which are essential for AppQoE to work.

NEW QUESTION # 105

Exhibit

□ When trying to set up a server protection SSL proxy, you receive the error shown. What are two reasons for this error? (Choose two.)

- A. The SSL proxy certificate ID is for a forwarding proxy.
- B. The SSL proxy certificate ID does not exist.
- C. The SSL proxy certificate ID is part of a blocklist.
- D. The SSL proxy certificate ID does not have the correct renegotiation option set.

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

The error message shown in the exhibit regarding the SSL proxy setup indicates an issue with the type of server certificate being used. The error explicitly states, "Unsupported cert type of server certid." Here are two plausible reasons for this error based on the options provided:

Option B. The SSL proxy certificate ID does not have the correct renegotiation option set.

This option points to a configuration issue related to the properties or capabilities of the certificate, such as renegotiation, which if not set correctly according to the expected requirements of the SSL proxy, might lead to the certificate being unsupported. Renegotiation settings are critical in ensuring secure connections, and mismatches in configuration can result in errors.

Option D. The SSL proxy certificate ID does not exist.

If the certificate ID being referred to in the SSL proxy profile does not exist in the device's certificate store or is incorrectly referenced, the system will be unable to apply the configuration, leading to an error during the commit operation. This situation would typically result in an error indicating that the system can't find or recognize the specified certificate ID.
