Microsoft GitHub Advanced Security Sample Questions (Q81-Q86):

NEW QUESTION # 81

Which of the following formats are used to describe a Dependabot alert? (Each answer presents a complete solution. Choose two.)

- A. Exploit Prediction Scoring System (EPSS)
- B. Vulnerability Exploitability exchange (VEX)
- C. Common Vulnerabilities and Exposures (CVE)
- D. Common Weakness Enumeration (CWE)

Answer: C,D

Explanation:

Dependabot alerts utilize standardized identifiers to describe vulnerabilities:

CVE (Common Vulnerabilities and Exposures): A widely recognized identifier for publicly known cybersecurity vulnerabilities.

CWE (Common Weakness Enumeration): A category system for software weaknesses and vulnerabilities.

These identifiers help developers understand the nature of the vulnerabilities and facilitate the search for more information or remediation strategies.

NEW QUESTION # 82

Assuming there is no custom Dependabot behavior configured, where possible, what does Dependabot do after sending an alert about a vulnerable dependency in a repository?

- A. scans repositories for vulnerable dependencies on a schedule and adds those files to a manifest
- B. constructs a graph of all the repository's dependencies and public dependents for the default branch
- C. creates a pull request to upgrade the vulnerable dependency to the minimum possible secure version
- D. scans any push to all branches and generates an alert for each vulnerable repository

Answer: C

Explanation:

In repositories where Dependabot security updates are enabled, when GitHub detects a vulnerable dependency in the default branch, Dependabot creates a pull request to fix it. The pull request will upgrade the dependency to the minimum possible secure version needed to avoid the vulnerability.

NEW QUESTION # 83

As a developer, you need to configure a code scanning workflow for a repository where GitHub Advanced Security is enabled. What minimum repository permission do you need?

- A. Read
- B. Write
- C. None
- D. Admin

Answer: B

Explanation:

Configuring advanced setup for code scanning with CodeQL

Selecting advanced setup generates a basic workflow file for you to customize using standard workflow syntax and specifying options for the CodeQL action. See Workflows and Customizing your advanced setup for code scanning.

Using actions to run code scanning will use minutes.

Note:

You can configure code scanning for any public repository where you have write access.

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

About GitHub Advanced Security products

GitHub has many features that help you improve and maintain the quality of your code. Some of these are included in all plans, such as dependency graph and Dependabot alerts.

Other security features require you to purchase one of GitHub's Advanced Security products:

GitHub Secret Protection, which includes features that help you detect and prevent secret leaks, such as secret scanning [B] and push protection.

GitHub Code Security, which includes features that help you find and fix vulnerabilities, like code scanning, premium Dependabot features, and dependency review [D].

NEW QUESTION # 85

As a contributor, you discovered a vulnerability in a repository. Where should you look for the instructions on how to report the vulnerability?

- A. support.md
- B. readme.md
- C. security.md
- D. contributing.md

Answer: C

Explanation:

The ability to privately report a vulnerability in a repository is not related to the presence of a SECURITY.md file in that repository's root or docs directory.

The SECURITY.md file contains the security policy for the repository. Repository administrators can add and use this file to provide public instructions for how to report a security vulnerability in their repository.
