- A. They set what the system shall do.
- B. They set what the users desire from their perspective.
- C. They set required domain properties.
- D. They set business goals and objectives of an organization.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

The CPRE materials distinguish several abstraction levels: business, stakeholder (including user), system and domain requirements. Business requirements express organizational goals. Stakeholder requirements describe what stakeholders, including users, want from their point of view, often in their language and context. User requirements are a subset of stakeholder requirements. System requirements refine these into what the system must do or how it must behave, while domain requirements describe properties and rules of the domain itself.

Therefore the statement that stakeholder requirements set what users desire from their perspective is the best fit among the options.

NEW QUESTION # 24

Choose the right option regarding stakeholders.

- A. External users are relatively easy to contact through formal channels.

- B. The more stakeholders you have found, the harder it becomes to find new ones.
- C. Stakeholders in the wider environment (Alexander's onion model) are still relevant.
- D. The user is always the most important stakeholder.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

Alexander's onion model distinguishes layers of stakeholders: core (system), involved, affected, and the wider environment.

Stakeholders in the wider environment-such as regulators, industry bodies or neighbouring systems-can still influence requirements via regulations, standards or interfaces; they remain relevant for RE, so C is correct. Users are not always the dominant stakeholder; for embedded or technical subsystems, other roles may outweigh them, so A is false. External users are often numerous, anonymous and hard to reach formally, making B wrong. Early stakeholder analysis often exhibits a snowball effect: once some are found, they point to others, so D is also incorrect.
