Salesforce Certified Platform Developer II - Multiple Choice Sample Questions (Q99-Q104):

NEW QUESTION # 99
A company accepts orders for customers in their enterprise resource planning (ERP) system that must be integrated into Salesforce as order_ c records with a lookup field to Account. The Account object has an external ID field, ENF_Customer_ID_c.
What should the Integration use to create new Oder_c records that will automatically be related to the correct Account?
A)
B)
C)
D)

- A. Option B
- B. Option D
- C. Option A
- D. Option C

Answer: C

Explanation:
When integrating external systems with Salesforce and creating records that need to be associated with existing Salesforce records based on an external ID, Salesforce provides the ability to reference an external ID field in a related object directly within a create or update call.
Option A is correct because the upsert operation can be used to either insert new records or update existing ones. By specifying the external ID field (ENF_Customer_ID__c) for the Account relationship, the system will automatically link the Order__c record to the correct Account based on the external ID provided by the ERP system.
Options B, C, and D are incorrect because they do not specifically utilize the capability of referencing an external ID to associate records during an integration process.

NEW QUESTION # 100
Universal Containers develops a Salesforce application that requires frequent interaction with an external REST API.
To avoid duplicating code and improve maintainability, how should they implement the APL integration for code reuse?

- A. Store the APT integration code as a static resource and reference it in each Apex class.
- B. Include the API integration code directly in each Apex class that requires it.
- C. Use a separate Apex class for each API endpoint to encapsulate the integration logic,
- D. Create a reusable Apex class for the AFL integration and invoke it from the relevant Apex classes.

Answer: D

Explanation:
Creating a reusable Apex class for API integration allows for code encapsulation and maintainability. This class can then be invoked from any other Apex class that requires interaction with the API, preventing code duplication.

NEW QUESTION # 101
Refer to the following code snippets:
A developer is experiencing issues with a Lightning web component. The component must surface information about Opportunities owned by the currently logged-in user.
When the component is rendered, the following message is displayed: "Error retrieving data". Which modification should be implemented to the Apex class to overcome the issue?

- A. Edit the code to use the w. cut sharing keyword in the Apex class.
- B. Use the Cacheable=true attribute in the Apex method,
- C. Ensure the OWD for the Opportunity object is Public.
- D. Use the Continuation=true attribute in the Apex method.

Answer: B

Explanation:
The @AuraEnabled(cacheable=true) attribute allows caching of method results on the client side, reducing server trips for already fetched data, which is useful for read-only data.

NEW QUESTION # 102
Users report that a button on a custom Lightning web component (LWC) is not saving the data they enter. The button looks to be clicked, but the LWC simply sits there, seemingly doing nothing.
What should the developer use to ensure error messages are properly displayed?

- A. Add JavaScript and HTML to display an error message.
- B. Add the <apex:messages/> tag to the component.
- C. Use the Database method with a110rNone Set to false.
- D. Add a try-catch block surrounding the DML statement.

Answer: A

Explanation:
To ensure error messages are properly displayed in a Lightning web component, the developer should use JavaScript to handle errors in the component's client-side code and use HTML to display the message on the UI. This can be combined with Apex exception handling for server-side operations.

NEW QUESTION # 103
How can a developer efficiently incorporate multiple JavaScript libraries in an Aura component?

- A. Join multiple assets from a static resource.
- B. Implement the libraries in separate helper files.
- C. Use CDNs with script attributes.
- D. Use JavaScript remoting and script tags.

Answer: A

Explanation:
For incorporating multiple JavaScript libraries in Aura components, the best practice is to join multiple assets into a single static resource. This approach is efficient and avoids issues with asynchronous loading and potential conflicts between libraries. Aura Components Developer Guide - Using External JavaScript Libraries
