NEW QUESTION # 43

A GIS administrator must determine which type of service to use when publishing a new basemap for the organization. The basemap must meet several requirements:
* Support offline workflows
* Use as little storage space as possible
* High-resolution display
* Easily incorporate data updates periodically made to a feature service Which service type should be used?

- A. Cached map service
- B. Vector tile service
- C. Dynamic map service

Answer: B

Explanation:
Vector tile services are optimized for high-resolution display and efficient storage, making them ideal for offline workflows. They allow for smaller file sizes compared to raster tiles and support dynamic styling.
Additionally, vector tile services can be updated by regenerating tiles from updated feature services, facilitating easy incorporation of data updates.

NEW QUESTION # 44

Multiple users report that a map service is experiencing negative performance. Upon review of ArcGIS Monitor data, the GIS analyst finds the following:
* The minimum number of instances is 2 and the maximum is 8 for that service.
* The data is in a publication Enterprise Geodatabase with no system usage in excess of 50%.
* At the p75 level of requests, the map service time is 10 times longer than the service time at the p25 level.
* The number of instances in use at the p50 level is 8.
* The maximum % of physical memory in use is 40%, and the maximum % of virtual memory in use is 44% on the ArcGIS Server.
* The maximum % CPU utilization observed is 53%.
What is causing the issue?

- A. The client is an Android device, and the ArcGIS Server is a Linux virtual machine.
- B. The maximum instance setting is too low for the demand on the underperforming map service.
- C. The network connection between the database server and ArcGIS Server is saturated.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 45

Portal for ArcGIS is running in a Windows environment.
Which type of account is recommended to run the Portal for ArcGIS service?

- A. Local machine administrator account
- B. Built-in system account
- C. Windows Active Directory domain account
- D. Group-managed service account

Answer: D

Explanation:
Esri recommends using a Group Managed Service Account (gMSA) to run Portal for ArcGIS services in Windows environments. gMSAs automatically manage passwords, align with Active Directory policies, and are ideal for enterprise-scale deployments.
From Esri documentation:
"Using a group managed service account (gMSA) to run Portal for ArcGIS services improves security by allowing Windows to manage the password, reducing administrative overhead while meeting enterprise security requirements."
* Option B (regular AD account) is acceptable but requires manual password updates.
* Option C and D are not secure or scalable for enterprise environments.

NEW QUESTION # 46

An organization is implementing a disaster recovery strategy for an ArcGIS Enterprise deployment for custom cached basemaps. Which action should the organization perform?

- A. Make backup copies of all cache folder directories
- B. Run the webgisdr disaster recovery utility tool
- C. Use the ArcGIS Data Store backup utility

Answer: A

Explanation:
Custom cached basemaps are stored as tile cache files on disk and are not included in backups created by the webgisdr tool or the ArcGIS Data Store backup utility. Therefore, to ensure these basemaps can be restored in the event of a disaster, it's essential to manually back up the cache directories where these tiles are stored.
This involves copying the cache folders to a secure backup location and ensuring they are kept in sync with any updates made to the basemaps.
The webgisdr tool (Option A) is used for backing up and restoring the ArcGIS Enterprise configuration and content but does not include custom tile caches. The ArcGIS Data Store backup utility (Option C) is used for backing up hosted feature layers and other data managed by the ArcGIS Data Store, not custom cached basemaps.

NEW QUESTION # 47

An ArcGIS Enterprise deployment is expanding one of its ArcGIS Server sites from one to three machines because some services now require additional resources. Half the services use a shared instance, and the other half includes dedicated instances.
What will happen to the minimum number of ArcSOCs running on the site?

- A. One and a half times as many ArcSOCs will be running
- B. The same number of ArcSOCs will be running
- C. Three times as many ArcSOCs will be running

Answer: C

Explanation:
When expanding an ArcGIS Server site from one to three machines, the number of ArcSOC processes (service instances) will increase proportionally. For dedicated instances, each service's minimum and maximum instances are configured per machine, so tripling the number of machines will triple the number of dedicated ArcSOCs. For shared instances, the shared instance pool runs on each machine, and the number of shared instances is configured per machine. Therefore, the total number of ArcSOCs (both dedicated and shared) will be approximately three times greater after the expansion
