Salesforce Certified Platform Administrator Sample Questions (Q15-Q20):

NEW QUESTION # 15

A Platform Administrator at Universal Containers is trying to deactivate a user who has left the company but is unable to do so. What is preventing the administrator from deactivating this user?

- A. The user is part of an active case assignment rule.
- B. The user is part of an Account team.
- C. The user is part of an Opportunity team.
- D. The user is the running user of a dashboard.

Answer: D

Explanation:

In Salesforce, certain dependencies prevent a user record from being deactivated. One of the most common blockers is if the user is the Running User of a Dashboard. Because the dashboard relies on that user's security context to display data to others, deactivating them would break the dashboard. To resolve this, the administrator must first change the running user of the dashboard to someone else. Being part of an Opportunity Team (Option C) or Account Team (Option D) does not prevent deactivation; the user simply remains on the team but is inactive. For Assignment Rules (Option B), while you cannot delete a user in a rule, deactivation is usually permitted, though it may result in an error when the rule attempts to assign a record to the inactive user. However, the "Running User" requirement is a hard system block.

NEW QUESTION # 16

Universal Containers wants to ensure that cases are routed to the right people at the right time, but there is a growing support organization. The business wants to be able to move people around and adjust the work they get without having to request extra assistance or rely on the administrator teams. Which tool allows the business to control its own assignment of work?

- A. Omni-Channel
- B. Case Assignment Rules
- C. Email-to-Case
- D. Lead Assignment Rules

Answer: A

Explanation:

Omni-Channel is a comprehensive service tool designed to route work items (like Cases, Leads, or custom objects) to the most available and qualified support agents in real-time. Unlike Case Assignment Rules, which are often static and require administrative intervention to update complex logic, Omni-Channel allows for more dynamic management through the use of Queues and Presence Statuses. By using Omni-Channel, a support manager or "Supervisor" can monitor agent workloads and adjust capacity or move people between service channels without needing to modify the underlying system configuration or involve the Platform Administrator. It supports various routing models, such as "Least Active" or "Most Available," ensuring that work is distributed fairly and efficiently. This flexibility is vital for growing organizations that need to scale their support operations quickly while maintaining high service levels. Furthermore, it provides the business with the autonomy to manage its workforce effectively, as managers can see who is logged in and what they are working on, allowing for immediate adjustments to handle spikes in case volume.

NEW QUESTION # 17

A sales rep wants to be able to categorize multiple picklist values into a single value on a report. Which option should a Platform Administrator suggest to the sales rep to accomplish this?

- A. Unique Count
- B. Bucket Column
- C. Chart
- D. Report Filter

Answer: B

Explanation:

A Bucket Column in a Salesforce report allows a user to group multiple field values into larger, more meaningful categories (buckets) without needing to create a new custom field or modify the underlying data. For instance, if a "Industry" picklist has twenty different values like "Banking,"

"Insurance," and "Venture Capital," a sales rep can create a bucket called "Financial Services" and place all three values inside it. When the report is run, these records are displayed under the

"Financial Services" header. This is the ideal solution for ad-hoc reporting needs where the user wants to see data summarized in a way that doesn't exactly match the existing picklist structure.

Report Filters (Option C) would exclude data rather than categorizing it. Unique Count (Option B) simply tells you how many distinct values exist in a column. Charts (Option D) are for visualization. Bucketing is a powerful, self-service tool for users to reorganize data for analysis.

NEW QUESTION # 18

Cloud Kicks wants to leverage roll-up summaries on the Account object. Which standard object supports this roll-up summary natively?

- A. Campaigns
- B. Case
- C. Opportunity
- D. Contact

Answer: C

Explanation:

A Roll-up Summary Field is a powerful feature that calculates values from related records and displays them on a master record. However, this functionality is natively available only on the "Master" side of a Master-Detail relationship. For standard objects, Salesforce provides a built-in Master-Detail-like relationship between Accounts and Opportunities. Specifically, the Account object acts as the master, and the Opportunity object acts as the detail. This relationship allows a Platform Administrator to create roll-up summary fields on the Account to calculate the sum of "Total Opportunity Amount," the "Minimum Close Date," or a "Count" of all related opportunities.

Other standard objects like Contacts (Option B) and Cases (Option C) have a lookup relationship to Accounts rather than a master-detail relationship, and therefore do not support native roll-up summaries. Campaigns (Option D) also do not share this specific relationship with Accounts. If an administrator needs to roll up data from these other objects, they would typically need to use a custom solution like Flow Builder or a third-party app, whereas Opportunities are supported natively out of the box.

NEW QUESTION # 19

A Platform Administrator at Cloud Kicks needs to export a file of closed won opportunities from the last 90 days. The file should include the Opportunity Name, ID, Close Date, and Amount.

What should the administrator use to export this file?

- A. Data Import Wizard
- B. Data Cloud Connection
- C. Data Loader
- D. Data Export Service

Answer: C

Explanation:

When an administrator needs to extract a specific subset of records (e.g., Opportunities filtered by stage and date) with specific fields, the Data Loader is the most appropriate tool. Data Loader is a client application that allows for bulk operations, including "Export" and "Export All". It allows the administrator to write a SOQL (Salesforce Object Query Language) query or use the built-in query builder to apply filters, such as StageName = 'Closed Won' and CloseDate = LAST_90_DAYS. The Data Import Wizard (Option B) is primarily used for importing data and has very limited export capabilities, usually confined to simple CSV samples. The Data Export Service (Option D), also known as "Weekly Export," is designed for full backup purposes; it exports the entire database into zip files and does not allow for specific filtering of records or fields for a quick ad-hoc report. Data Cloud (Option C) is a large-scale data platform and is overkill for a simple file export task. Thus, for targeted, field-specific exports of 90 days of data, Data Loader is the standard choice.
