NEW QUESTION # 86

What should an administrator do to keep secure fields protected in email templates'?

- A. Use classic encrypted fields.
- B. Set up an approval process for email alerts.
- C. Implement GDPR.
- D. Remove the fields from the email.

Answer: D

Explanation:

To ensure that secure fields remain protected in email templates, administrators should remove the fields from the email. Email templates can expose sensitive information if they contain fields with secure data. By excluding these fields, administrators can prevent unauthorized access to sensitive information through email communication.

 Removing Secure Fields from Email Templates:

* When creating or updating email templates, administrators should carefully assess the fields included and remove any that contain sensitive information, such as encrypted fields or fields that contain Personal Identifiable Information (PII).

* This approach ensures that secure information is not unintentionally shared via email, aligning with best practices for data security and minimizing exposure risks.

 Implications of Including Secure Data in Emails:

* Secure fields, particularly those that contain sensitive or confidential information, should be restricted from emails to avoid potential data breaches.

* Email communication often lacks the same security controls as the Salesforce platform, making it essential to limit the sharing of sensitive data.

Incorrect options:

* Implement GDPR: While GDPR compliance ensures proper data handling practices, it does not directly prevent secure fields from being included in emails.

* Set up an approval process for email alerts: An approval process can control the sending of email alerts but does not inherently protect secure fields within the email content.

* Use classic encrypted fields: Encrypted fields add a layer of security for data at rest within Salesforce but do not provide specific protections for data included in email templates. Moreover, encrypted fields cannot be referenced in email templates.

In conclusion, the most effective way to ensure that secure fields are not exposed through email templates is to remove these fields from the template altogether, avoiding the inclusion of sensitive data in email communications.

NEW QUESTION # 87

The administrator at Cloud Kicks needs to set up automation to update three fields on the Shipment custom object. Because of the effect these updates will have on some programmatic customizations, they need to happen in a very specific order.

How should the administrator configure the field updates to ensure the proper order.

- A. Create a process with three criteria nodes and stop after each action.
- B. Create a process with one criteria node and three field updates in the correct order.
- C. Create a workflow rule with three field updates entered in the correct order.
- D. Create three workflow rules in order, one workflow rule for each field update.

Answer: B

Explanation:

To ensure that multiple field updates occur in a specific order on a custom object, the administrator should create a process with one criteria node and three field updates arranged in the correct order. This approach allows the updates to execute sequentially within a single automation framework, ensuring that they happen in the intended order.

 Using Process Builder with a Single Criteria Node:

* In Process Builder, the administrator can define a single criteria node that triggers the field updates. By adding multiple field updates within this single node and arranging them in the desired sequence, Salesforce will execute them in that specific order.

* This setup provides better control over the sequence of updates compared to multiple workflow rules, as Process Builder will execute each field update step by step as configured within the node.

 Advantages Over Workflow Rules:

* Unlike workflow rules, where the order of execution can be less predictable due to separate triggers, Process Builder enables precise control over the execution sequence within the same process.

* Using multiple workflow rules or multiple criteria nodes with stop actions would complicate the setup without guaranteeing the specific order. Process Builder's structure ensures that updates proceed in the exact order defined.

Incorrect options:

* Option A (Three workflow rules): Creating separate workflow rules for each update does not ensure a specific order of execution, as workflow rules are not guaranteed to run sequentially.

* Option C (Three criteria nodes with stop actions): This approach would execute each node separately, and the stop action after each node adds unnecessary complexity, without ensuring the sequential order required.

* Option D (One workflow rule with three field updates): Workflow rules do not guarantee the order of field updates within a single rule. Using Process Builder with a single node is more reliable for sequential execution.

In conclusion, Process Builder with one criteria node and ordered field updates is the most effective approach to ensure a specific execution sequence for multiple field updates on the Shipment object.

Reference: According to Salesforce best practices, Process Builder is recommended over multiple workflow rules when specific ordering and complex logic are required for field updates
