CIPS Supplier Relationships Sample Questions (Q242-Q247):

NEW QUESTION # 242

A competitive advantage can be gained by doing what?

- A. Building better relationships with primary stakeholders
- B. Increasing your prices

- C. Completing formal tenders for all buying requirements
- D. Engaging in market research

Answer: A

Explanation:

The correct answer is 'Building better relationships with primary stakeholders'. This is a direct quote from the start of chapter 2.2: 'building better relationships with primary stakeholders such as employees, customers, suppliers and communities could lead to increased shareholder wealth by developing a competitive advantage'. The other three options wouldn't give you a competitive advantage; increasing prices would do the opposite, engaging in market research won't give you a competitive advantage unless you do something with that research such as implement a change to your business, and completing formal tenders for everything would be a waste of time and resources- there's no need to tender for low value, low risk items. See p.80

NEW QUESTION # 243

Intellectual Property Rights (IPR) include items such as copywrite and trademarks. A buyer is considering entering into a partnership with their supplier to create a new product which will be released in two years' time. Should IPR be included into a contract between partners?

- A. Yes- IPR is a valid concern for both parties but will survive the termination of the agreement
- B. Yes- IPR should always remain with the buyer- this will protect those rights
- C. No- a separate legal agreement should be created to cover IPR
- D. No- a contract is not necessary if it is a partnership.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The correct answer is 'Yes- IPR is a valid concern for both parties but will survive the termination of the agreement' (p.112). See the section on 'Legal considerations' in chapter 2.4

NEW QUESTION # 244

A company supplies IT equipment and buys most of its components from first-tier suppliers in the UK. It wants to analyse its supply market to develop the supply chain and is going to review the main factors that have an influence. The company wants to use the STEEPLD external environmental analysis framework to achieve the best result. Which of the following STEEPLD factors is most likely to have the greatest effect?

- A. Ethical
- B. Technological
- C. Sociocultural
- D. Economic

Answer: B

Explanation:

In the context of the IT equipment industry, Technological factors are paramount. The rapid pace of technological advancement influences product development, supply chain processes, and market competitiveness. Utilizing the STEEPLD framework, technological considerations would significantly impact the company's supply chain strategy.

As per the CIPS Intelligence Hub:

"STEEPLED analysis is a strategic planning methodology that can be used across all business functions to discover, evaluate, organise, and track external risk."

- CIPS Intelligence Hub: Using STEEPLED analysis to develop your supply chain
