Medical Tests American Academy of Professional Coders: Certified Professional Coder Sample Questions (Q56-Q61):

NEW QUESTION # 56

A patient receives a positron emission technology (PET) scan at rest, where a metabolic evaluation study, including ventricular wall motion was performed using PET imaging. A computed tomography (CT) was performed at the same time. What CPT code(s) should the radiologist report?

- A. 0
- B. 78429, 76497-59
- C. 1
- D. 78430, 76497-59

Answer: A

Explanation:

PET scans are reported using CPT codes 78429-78434. The documentation specifies that a metabolic study was performed versus a perfusion study, thus eliminating answers B and D. A CT scan is included in the description of CPT 78429, thus making it unable to be separately reportable.

NEW QUESTION # 57

A sternal closure using sutures is considered inclusive to CPT 33255 and should not be reported separately.

- A. True
- B. False

Answer: A

Explanation:

The statement is true. Regardless of how a sternal closure is performed, it would be considered integral to this, and any other open cardiac procedure, when a sternal approach is used as the method of exposure. If a sternal closure were performed as the only procedure to repair an injury, the closure would then be reported.

NEW QUESTION # 58

Which patient is receiving critical care services?

- A. A 47 -year-old female with a history of unrepairs chronic heart disease and anemia has an oxygen saturation level of 80. She is put on a nasal cannula and given a blood transfusion to improve her oxygen-carrying capacity and oxygen saturation level.
- B. A 60-year-old male is admitted with an acute chronic heart failure exacerbation causing hypoxic respiratory failure. The patient is intubated, sedated, and started on 50 mg ofertapenem for a potential lung infection.
- C. A 93 -year-old male is admitted to the intensive care unit for monitoring after a coronary angioplasty procedure that was performed to relieve symptoms of atherosclerosis.
- D. A 67 -year-old female receives chronic ventilator therapy after a cerebral infarction that caused hemorrhage in the brain.

Answer: B

Explanation:

CPT guidelines define critical care as an illness or injury that acutely impairs one or more vital organ systems, where there is a high probability of imminent or life-threatening deterioration in the patient's condition. Additionally, to report a critical care service, the documentation should provide evidence of high-complexity medical decision-making (e.g. endotracheal tube insertion, defibrillation, fluid administration for shock, Narcan, etc.). Answer B is the only option listed that contains documentation to support critical care services.

This male patient has Vyvo life-threatening conditions, in which emergent intervention is provided to prevent further deterioration. In answer A the female patient may have a life-threatening condition; however, administering oxygen via a nasal cannula and/or transfusing blood does not qualify as critical care. Management of a patient who receives chronic ventilator therapy is also not considered critical care because the medical decision-making involved in the therapy is quite low.

The care a patient receives after having surgery would be considered routine and postoperative, regardless of where they are sent, unless a complication arises in which one or more of the vital organ systems begins to deteriorate in a fashion that poses a threat to life.

NEW QUESTION # 59

In the Current Procedural Terminology book, how is the icon "Excludes" meant to be interpreted?

- A. A causal relationship should be presumed between the two conditions.
- B. An additional code should be reported to fully describe a condition.
- C. It may identify services that are not bundled and may lead the user to a more appropriate code.
- D. It may include services that are bundled and cannot be separately billed.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The "Excludes" note identifies services that are not bundled into a procedure and may be reported in addition to the primary code. It may also lead the user to another code that would be more appropriate for the procedure being reported. Answer B describes "with." Answer C describes the icon "Includes." Answer D describes the "code also" note attached to a diagnosis.

NEW QUESTION # 60

A patient undergoes surgery with anesthesia and is arousable with painful stimulation. What is the level of sedation the patient MOST likely received?

- A. General anesthesia
- B. Moderate sedation
- C. Minimal sedation
- D. Deep sedation

Answer: D

Explanation:

Minimal, moderate, and deep sedation all allow the patient to undergo a procedure without pain and without being completely unconscious. If a patient receives minimal sedation, they are responsive after receiving verbal stimulation. Moderate sedation causes a patient to respond only after tactile stimulation. General anesthesia causes the patient to be completely unarousable, even with painful stimulation.
