Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 19

The fourth step for projects in the Back End is for teams to undertake the formal design and development work required to have a final design for the offering. For a product, this involves an engineering design that is consistently manufacturable and yields a product capable of delivering on the Design and Innovation Intents set for it.

Select one correct answer from the list:

- A. Manufacturing ready and yields a product capable of satisfying customers
- B. Consistently manufacturable and yields a product capable of delivering on the Design and Innovation Intents set for it
- C. Manufacturable within quality limits and yields a product that meets all of its specifications
- D. Easy to manufacture and assemble, and yields a product customers are very happy with

Answer: B

Explanation:

GInI'sCInP Handbook defines the Back End's fourth step as finalizing the design, where for products, engineering ensures the design is "consistently manufacturable" and meets the "Design and Innovation Intents" (specific value or experience goals set earlier). Consistency ensures scalable production, while intents tie back to the original vision (e.g., usability, performance). Option A, "manufacturing ready," is vague and customer satisfaction is an outcome, not intent. Option B, "easy to manufacture," lowers the bar- GInI seeks consistency, not ease- and "very happy" is subjective. Option D, "within quality limits," is close but "specifications" is broader than intents, which are strategic. Option C matches GInI's exact wording and focus, aligning with the original answer, emphasizing fidelity to the innovation's purpose through robust engineering- a critical Back End discipline.
