CompTIA SecurityX Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q305-Q310):

NEW QUESTION # 305

Employees use their badges to track the number of hours they work. The badge readers cannot be upgraded due to facility constraints. The software for the badge readers uses a legacy platform and requires connectivity to the enterprise resource planning solution. Which of the following is the best to ensure the security of the badge readers?

- A. Segmentation
- B. Anti-malware
- C. Vulnerability scans

Answer: A

Explanation:

Segmentation is the best option to ensure the security of legacy badge readers that cannot be upgraded. Segmentation isolates the legacy devices on a separate network segment to minimize their exposure to potential threats. This approach reduces the attack surface by preventing unauthorized access from other parts of the network while still allowing necessary connectivity to the enterprise resource planning (ERP) system.

NEW QUESTION # 306

A security engineer receives an alert from the SIEM platform indicating a possible malicious action on the internal network. The engineer generates a report that outputs the logs associated with the incident:

Which of the following actions best enables the engineer to investigate further?

- A. Searching dark web monitoring resources for exposure
- B. Reviewing audit logs from privileged actions
- C. Consulting logs from the enterprise password manager
- D. Querying user behavior analytics data

Answer: D

Explanation:

The best step is to query user behavior analytics (UBA) data. SIEM alerts provide potential security events, but without additional context, they may lead to false positives. UBA solutions detect anomalies by comparing user activity against baselines of normal behavior, highlighting unusual login patterns, lateral movement, or privilege escalation.

Option A (password manager logs) focuses only on credential use and lacks behavioral insight. Option B (dark web monitoring) helps identify compromised accounts but does not investigate the internal incident. Option C (audit logs for privileged actions) is useful but narrow in scope—it only covers administrator accounts.

By correlating SIEM data with UBA, the engineer can validate whether the flagged activity indicates real malicious behavior or benign anomalies. CAS-005 emphasizes advanced analytics integration (UEBA/UBA) to strengthen investigation and reduce false positives, making Option D the most effective choice.

NEW QUESTION # 307

During an adversarial simulation exercise, an external team was able to gain access to sensitive information and systems without the organization detecting this activity. Which of the following mitigation strategies should the organization use to best resolve the findings?

- A. Configuring a honeypot for adversary characterization
- B. Leveraging simulators for attackers
- C. Utilizing decoy accounts and documents
- D. Setting up a honey network for attackers

Answer: C

Explanation:

Utilizing decoy accounts and documents (often referred to as honeytokens) is the best mitigation strategy in this scenario. Decoy accounts and documents are designed to look like legitimate, sensitive data or systems, but they are actually trapping. If an adversary accesses these decoys, it can trigger alerts and give the organization an early warning of the intrusion. This helps the organization detect unauthorized access more quickly and provides the opportunity to respond before actual damage is done.

NEW QUESTION # 308

A systems administrator wants to use existing resources to automate reporting from disparate security appliances that do not currently communicate. Which of the following is the best way to meet this objective?

- A. Purchasing and deploying commercial off the shelf aggregation software
- B. Configuring an API Integration to aggregate the different data sets
- C. Migrating application usage logs to on-premises storage
- D. Combining back-end application storage into a single, relational database

Answer: B

Explanation:

The best way to automate reporting from disparate security appliances that do not currently communicate is to configure an API Integration to aggregate the different data sets. Here's why:

Interoperability: APIs allow different systems to communicate and share data, even if they were not originally designed to work together. This enables the integration of various security appliances into a unified reporting system.

Automation: API integrations can automate the process of data collection, aggregation, and reporting, reducing manual effort and increasing efficiency.

Scalability: APIs provide a scalable solution that can easily be extended to include additional security appliances or data sources as needed.

NEW QUESTION # 309

A malicious actor exploited firmware vulnerabilities and used rootkits in an attack on an organization. After the organization recovered from the incident, an engineer needs to recommend a solution that reduces the likelihood of the same type of attack in the future. Which of the following is the most relevant solution?

- A. Configuring host-based encryption
- B. Enabling software integrity checks
- C. Implementing measured boot
- D. Installing self-encrypting drives

Answer: C
