- A. Obfuscation.
- B. Stripping.
- C. Perturbation.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 215

Which of the following functionalities can meet some of the General Data Protection Regulation's (GDPR's) Data Portability requirements for a social networking app designed for users in the EU?

- A. Allow users to modify the data they provided the app.
- B. Allow users to delete the content they provided the app.
- C. Allow users to get a time-stamped list of what they have provided the app.
- D. Allow users to download the content they have provided the app.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Allowing users to download the content they have provided to the app meets some of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) Data Portability requirements. GDPR mandates that individuals have the right to obtain and reuse their personal data across different services. By providing a functionality that enables users to download their data, the app facilitates this right, allowing users to easily transfer their information to other services if they choose. This capability directly addresses the data portability requirement specified in Article 20 of the GDPR, ensuring that users maintain control over their personal data. The IAPP documentation on GDPR compliance highlights data portability as a critical aspect of user rights under the regulation.

NEW QUESTION # 216

Which of the following is most important to provide to the data subject before the collection phase of the data lifecycle?

- A. Consent Request.
- B. Privacy Notice.
- C. Data Protection Policy.
- D. Disclosure Policy.

Answer: B

Explanation:

* Option A: A privacy notice informs data subjects about how their data will be collected, used, and protected. It is crucial to provide this notice before data collection to ensure transparency and comply with legal requirements.

* Option B: A disclosure policy might detail how data will be shared, but it is generally part of a broader privacy notice.

* Option C: While obtaining consent is important, the privacy notice is the first step in informing the data subject about the data processing activities, enabling informed consent.

* Option D: A data protection policy outlines an organization's overall approach to protecting data but is typically internal rather than something provided directly to data subjects.

NEW QUESTION # 217

SCENARIO

Carol was a U.S.-based glassmaker who sold her work at art festivals. She kept things simple by only accepting cash and personal checks.

As business grew, Carol couldn't keep up with demand, and traveling to festivals became burdensome. Carol opened a small boutique and hired Sam to run it while she worked in the studio. Sam was a natural salesperson, and business doubled. Carol told Sam, "I don't know what you are doing, but keep doing it!" But months later, the gift shop was in chaos. Carol realized that Sam needed help so she hired Jane, who had business expertise and could handle the back-office tasks. Sam would continue to focus on sales. Carol gave Jane a few weeks to get acquainted with the artisan craft business, and then scheduled a meeting for the three of them to discuss Jane's first impressions.

At the meeting, Carol could not wait to hear Jane's thoughts, but she was unprepared for what Jane had to say.

"Carol, I know that he doesn't realize it, but some of Sam's efforts to increase sales have put you in a vulnerable position. You are not protecting customers' personal information like you should." Sam said, "I am protecting our information. I keep it in the safe with our bank deposit. It's only a list of customers' names, addresses and phone numbers that I get from their checks before I deposit them. I contact them when you finish a piece that I think they would like. That's the only information I have! The only other thing I do is post photos and information about your work on the photo sharing site that I use with family and friends. I provide my email address and people send me their information if they want to see more of your work. Posting online really helps sales, Carol. In fact, the only complaint I hear is about having to come into the shop to make a purchase." Carol replied, "Jane, that doesn't sound so bad. Could you just fix things and help us to post even more online?"

"I can," said Jane. "But it's not quite that simple. I need to set up a new program to make sure that we follow the best practices in data management. And I am concerned for our customers. They should be able to manage how we use their personal information. We also should develop a social media strategy." Sam and Jane worked hard during the following year. One of the decisions they made was to contract with an outside vendor to manage online sales. At the end of the year, Carol shared some exciting news. "Sam and Jane, you have done such a great job that one of the biggest names in the glass business wants to buy us out!

And Jane, they want to talk to you about merging all of our customer and vendor information with theirs beforehand." When initially collecting personal information from customers, what should Jane be guided by?

- A. Digital rights management.
- B. Data minimization principles.
- C. Onward transfer rules.
- D. Vendor management principles

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 218

Which of the following entities would most likely be exempt from complying with the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR)?

- A. A South American company that regularly collects European customers' personal data.
- B. A company that stores all customer data in Australia and is headquartered in a European Union (EU) member state.
- C. A Chinese company that has opened a satellite office in a European Union (EU) member state to service European customers.
- D. A North American company servicing customers in South Africa that uses a cloud storage system made by a European company.

Answer: D

Explanation:

The General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) applies to entities that process personal data of individuals within the European Union, regardless of where the processing takes place. In this scenario, the North American company is servicing customers in South Africa and, although it uses a cloud storage system made by a European company, it is not directly involved in the processing of personal data of EU citizens.

Therefore, it is most likely exempt from complying with the GDPR.
