Lpi Linux Essentials Certificate Exam - version 1.6 Sample Questions (Q78-Q83):

NEW QUESTION # 78

A new server needs to be installed to host services for a period of several years. Throughout this time, the server should receive important security updates from its Linux distribution.

Which of the following Linux distributions meet these requirements? (Choose two.)

- A. Fedora Linux
- B. Ubuntu Linux LTS
- C. Red Hat Enterprise Linux
- D. Ubuntu Linux non-LTS
- E. Debian GNU/Linux Unstable

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

Explanation

Ubuntu Linux LTS and Red Hat Enterprise Linux are two Linux distributions that meet the requirements of hosting services for a period of several years and receiving important security updates from their Linux distribution. LTS stands for Long Term Support, which means that these versions of Ubuntu Linux are supported by Canonical, the company behind Ubuntu, for five years with security patches, bug fixes, and software updates¹. Red Hat Enterprise Linux is a commercial Linux distribution that offers a stable and secure platform for enterprise applications, with a 10-year life cycle and regular security updates from Red Hat, the company behind RHEL². Fedora Linux, Debian GNU/Linux Unstable, and Ubuntu Linux non-LTS are not suitable for the requirements, because they have shorter support cycles and are more focused on providing the latest features and software versions, rather than stability and security. Fedora Linux releases a new version every six months and each version is supported for 13 months³. Debian GNU/Linux Unstable is the development branch of Debian, which is constantly updated with new packages and changes, but is not intended for production use⁴. Ubuntu Linux non-LTS releases a new version every six months and each version is supported for nine months¹. References:
