Appian Senior Developer Sample Questions (Q99-Q104):

NEW QUESTION # 99

What are two advantages of database normalization? (Choose two.)

- A. Minimizing data redundancy.
- B. Minimizing the number of tables that need to be created.
- C. Enforcing data integrity.
- D. Simplifying query statements to read data.

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

Database normalization enforces data integrity by structuring data and relationships to prevent anomalies.

It minimizes data redundancy by ensuring each piece of information is stored only once, reducing duplication.

NEW QUESTION # 100

You're creating a point-of-sale (POS) system for a customer which can associate the items in a transaction to a customer based on a membership number. The item stock table and the customer sales record are hosted elsewhere and need to be written to via POST APIs from an Appian process model. This all occurs within a transaction process model that you're creating.

Which two steps should you perform to design your process model to improve process memory? (Choose two.)

- A. Add a terminate process node to the end of the process.
- B. Create the two POST APIs as asynchronous subprocesses.
- C. Create the two POST APIs as synchronous subprocesses.
- D. Ensure that the entire process is activity-chained so that the person entering the transaction knows when the process is completed.

Answer: A,B

Explanation:

Creating the POST API calls as asynchronous subprocesses allows them to run independently, reducing memory usage in the main process.

Adding a terminate process node at the end ensures the process completes and releases memory as soon as its work is finished.

NEW QUESTION # 101

In reviewing the process model metrics of your application, you notice a process model with a completion rate of only 10%. What are two possible reasons for this low completion rate? (Choose two.)

- A. The process contains at least one User Input Task with no exceptions or escalations, and users do not complete the task.
- B. The days configured for archival or deletion is significantly higher than the other process models in your application.
- C. There are a significant number of instances that are experiencing process errors, which are not being handled by the production support team.
- D. There are a high number of smart service nodes configured in the process model.

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

Process errors that remain unhandled will stall instances; those instances never reach an end event, driving the completion rate down. User-input tasks without deadlines, exceptions, or escalations can sit indefinitely when users do not act, leaving instances in an active state and lowering the overall completion percentage.

NEW QUESTION # 102

An energy company wants to allow the public to be able to report power outages directly and provide supporting documentation in the form of photos and/or videos. The company also requires the reporter's contact details.

How can a developer design and implement this requirement in Appian?

- A. A custom version of the Appian mobile app that the user can use to capture details, attached photos, and upload documents.
- B. A site where the user can trigger a process that captures the information including any uploaded files, and uploads everything to an internal Microsoft SharePoint site.
- C. A portal that interacts with records that stores the name, address, contact information, with a defined folder to store uploaded documents.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 103

You're establishing a Health Check schedule for your department.

Which two statements should you consider when implementing Health Checks? (Choose two.)

- A. Run a Health Check at least once a month in production as part of server and application monitoring.
- B. Run Health Checks during regular non-business hours in production to avoid slowing down the environment.
- C. Configure a weekly Health Check cadence for the development environment.
- D. Run Health Checks during regular business hours in production to identify issues during heavy usage.

Answer: A,B

Explanation:

Running a Health Check at least once a month in production is best practice for ongoing monitoring and early issue detection. Running Health Checks during non-business hours in production helps avoid performance impact on end users.
