Thru are now implementing salesforce and would like to enable a Two-factor login process for it, as well. What is the recommended solution an architect should consider?

- A. Replace the custom 2fa system with an app exchange app that supports on-premise applications and salesforce.
- B. Use custom login flows to connect to the existing custom 2fa system for use in salesforce.
- C. Replace the custom 2fa system with salesforce 2fa for on-premise application and salesforce.
- D. Use the custom 2fa system for on-premise applications and native 2fa for salesforce.

Answer: B

Explanation:
Explanation
Using custom login flows to connect to the existing custom 2fa system for use in salesforce is the recommended solution because it allows you to leverage your existing 2fa infrastructure and provide a consistent user experience across your applications. Custom login flows let you customize the authentication process by adding extra screens or logic before or after the standard login1. You can use Apex code to call your custom 2fa system and verify the user's identity2. This option also gives you more flexibility and control over the 2fa process than using native 2fa or an app exchange app3. NEW QUESTION # 243
Northern Trail Outfitters (NTO) uses Salesforce Experience Cloud sites (previously known as Customer Community) to provide a digital portal where customers can login using their Google account.
NTO would like to automatically create a case record for first time users logging into Salesforce Experience Cloud.
What should an Identity architect do to fulfill the requirement?

- A. Create an authentication provider for Social Login using Google and leverage standard registration handler.
- B. Configure an authentication provider for Social Login using Google and a custom registration handler.
- C. Implement a Just-in-Time handler class that has logic to create cases upon first login.
- D. Implement a login flow with a record create component for Case.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 244
Universal containers (UC) is setting up their customer Community self-registration process. They are uncomfortable with the idea of assigning new users to a default account record. What will happen when customers self-register in the community?

- A. The self-registration page will create a new account record.
- B. The self-registration process will create a person Account record.
- C. The self-registration process will produce an error to the user.
- D. The self-registration page will ask user to select an account.

Answer: B

Explanation:
When customers self-register in the community, the self-registration process will create a person account record. A person account is a special type of account that combines both account and contact information in one record. This allows customers to have their own individual accounts without being associated with a default account. Option A is not a good choice because the self-registration process will not produce an error to the user, unless there is some configuration or validation issue. Option B is not a good choice because the self-registration page will not ask user to select an account, unless it is customized to do so. Option D is not a good choice because the self-registration page will not create a new account record, unless it is customized to do so.

SSO from Salesforce1 mobile app requires using the My Domain URL as the login server4. Enabling My Domain does not affect the app launcher or login forensics features.
