- A. destination NAT, source NAT, static NAT
- B. source NAT, destination NAT, static NAT
- C. source NAT, static NAT, destination NAT
- D. static NAT, destination NAT, source NAT

Answer: D

Explanation:

Junos OS processes NAT in the following order:

1. Static NAT - performed first so that address translations are consistent and reversible.
2. Destination NAT - applied next to translate destination addresses (e.g., inbound connections).

- B. The original destination IP address was translated to a new destination IP address.
- C. There is no change to the original destination IP address.
- D. There is no change to the original source IP address.

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

The original source IP address in the session is 10.20.30.40, but in the "Out" direction it no longer appears; instead, the destination is 192.0.2.1, showing that the original source IP has been translated to a new source IP (192.0.2.1).
