IIA Business Knowledge for Internal Auditing Sample Questions (Q138-Q143):

NEW QUESTION # 138

An employee in the receiving department keyed in a shipment to the accounts payable system and inadvertently omitted the purchase order number. The best systems control to detect this error is:

- A. Compatibility test.
- B. Sequence check.
- C. Completeness test.
- D. Reasonableness test.

Answer: C

Explanation:

A completeness test checks that all data elements are entered before processing. An interactive system can be programmed to notify the user to enter the number before accepting the receiving report.

NEW QUESTION # 139

Several surveys point out that most managers use full product costs, including unit fixed costs and unit variable costs, in developing cost-based pricing. Which one of the following is least associated with cost-based pricing?

- A. Target pricing.
- B. Price justification.
- C. Fixed-cost recovery.
- D. Price stability.

Answer: A

Explanation:

A target price is the expected market price of a product, given the company's knowledge of its customers and competitors. Hence, under target pricing, the sales price is known before the product is developed. Subtracting the unit target profit margin determines the long-term unit target cost. If cost-cutting measures do not permit the product to be made at or below the target cost, it will be abandoned.

NEW QUESTION # 140

The following data on variables x and y was collected from June to October: The correlation coefficient between variables x and y is nearest to:

- A. -1.00
- B. 1.00
- C. 0.50
- D. 0.00

Answer: A

Explanation:

A correlation coefficient of -1.00 describes a perfect inverse correlation; that is, the observations fall exactly along a straight line and the value of one variable increases (decreases) as the other decreases (increases). In the example to the left, the equation of the straight line is:
