NEW QUESTION # 85
Which of the following IT transformations drive data center networks towards all-Ethernet?

- A. The IT architecture evolves from centralized to distributed.
- B. The deployment mode evolves from single-cloud mode to multiple deployment modes such as multi- cloud mode.
- C. Storage media evolves from HDDs to SSDs.
- D. PCIe is replaced.

Answer: A,C

Explanation:
The transition to all-Ethernet data center networks is driven by several IT transformations. Below is an analysis of each option:
PCIe is replaced : PCIe is a local bus standard used for high-speed device connections within servers. Its replacement does not directly contribute to the shift toward all-Ethernet networks.
Storage media evolves from HDDs to SSDs : The adoption of SSDs increases storage performance and reduces latency, making Ethernet-based storage protocols like NVMe over Fabrics (NVMe-oF) viable alternatives to traditional Fibre Channel.
The IT architecture evolves from centralized to distributed : Distributed architectures require scalable and flexible networking solutions, which Ethernet-based networks are well-suited to provide.
The deployment mode evolves from single-cloud mode to multiple deployment modes such as multi-cloud mode : While multi-cloud deployments influence network design, they do not directly drive the shift to all- Ethernet networks.
Thus, the correct answers are B and C .
