CFA Institute Certificate in ESG Investing Sample Questions (Q184-Q189):

NEW QUESTION # 184

Which of the following parties is most likely to help investors identify the extent and depth to which investment funds integrate ESG?

- A. Investment consultants
- B. Investment platforms
- C. Fund labellers

Answer: C

Explanation:

Fund labellers are most likely to help investors identify the extent and depth to which investment funds integrate ESG. Fund labellers provide certifications or labels that signify a fund's adherence to specific ESG criteria, making it easier for investors to identify and compare funds based on their ESG integration.

Role of fund labellers: Organizations that provide ESG labels or certifications evaluate funds against defined ESG standards. These labels serve as a signal to investors that the fund meets certain ESG criteria, facilitating informed investment decisions.

Comparison with other parties:

Investment platforms (B): These platforms facilitate access to a wide range of investment products but may not provide detailed ESG integration assessments.

Investment consultants (C): Consultants can offer tailored advice on ESG integration but may not provide the same standardized and widely recognized certification as fund labellers.

NEW QUESTION # 185

Competition and corruption within the general business environment is most likely a material governance factor for investments in:

- A. Infrastructure.
- B. Private equity.
- C. Sovereign debt.

Answer: C

Explanation:

For sovereign debt investors, governance factors like competition, corruption, and institutional stability are critical risks (Option C).

Countries with weak institutions and high corruption levels tend to have:

Higher borrowing costs due to investor concerns about misuse of public funds.

Lower credit ratings, affecting the country's ability to issue debt at favorable rates.

Option A (Infrastructure) involves governance risks, but not at the national level like sovereign debt.

Option B (Private equity) is more influenced by corporate governance rather than national corruption levels.

NEW QUESTION # 186

A materiality assessment to identify ESG issues impacting a company's financial performance is most likely measured in terms of:

- A. likelihood only.
- B. both likelihood and magnitude of impact.
- C. magnitude of impact only.

Answer: B

Explanation:

A materiality assessment to identify ESG issues impacting a company's financial performance is most effectively measured in terms of both likelihood and magnitude of impact. This approach provides a comprehensive view of potential risks and opportunities by evaluating how likely an issue is to occur and the extent of its potential impact on financial performance. This dual assessment helps in prioritizing ESG issues that are both probable and significant in their effects.

NEW QUESTION # 187

Fund labelers are most likely classified as:

- A. regulators
- B. financial advisers
- C. fund promoters.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Fund labelers are most likely classified as fund promoters. Fund promoters are responsible for marketing and promoting investment funds, including those with specific labels such as ESG or green funds.

Marketing Role: Fund promoters play a key role in marketing investment products to potential investors. They use labels such as ESG, green, or sustainable to attract investors interested in these themes.

Product Differentiation: By labeling funds with ESG or other sustainable labels, fund promoters differentiate their products in the market. This helps investors identify funds that align with their values and investment criteria.

Regulatory Compliance: Fund promoters must ensure that the funds meet the criteria for the labels they use.

This involves compliance with relevant regulations and standards that govern the use of ESG and other sustainable labels.
