Axis Network Video Exam Sample Questions (Q300-Q305):

NEW QUESTION # 300

Pixel density increases when

- A. the distance to the object grows.
- B. the field of view decreases.
- C. the focal length decreases.
- D. the aperture increases.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Pixel density increases when the field of view decreases. By narrowing the field of view, the same number of pixels are concentrated over a smaller area, resulting in higher pixel density. This means that more detail can be captured in a given area, which is essential for applications requiring high image resolution and clarity. This concept is confirmed by Axis Communications' documentation on image quality and pixel density.

NEW QUESTION # 301

When using the AXIS Design Tool, what is the most important message to bring to your end user?

- A. That the numbers calculated are always conservative
- B. That redundant storage will more than double the calculations
- C. That the calculations are only estimates and not final numbers
- D. That using RAID configurations is always recommended

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 302

What is true when using AXIS People Counter?

- A. It is recommended for both indoor and outdoor use
- B. IR illumination will affect the counting accuracy
- C. A camera with Lightfinder technology must be used
- D. The camera lens must be facing straight down

Answer: D

Explanation:

When using AXIS People Counter, the camera lens must be facing straight down. This positioning ensures the most accurate counting of people as they pass through the monitored area. The overhead view eliminates obstructions and provides a clear field of vision directly below the camera, which is essential for precise counting. This recommendation is verified by Axis Communications' guidelines on deploying the AXIS People Counter application.

NEW QUESTION # 303

Closing the aperture at a fixed focal length provides

- A. a shorter depth of field and a higher f-number.
- B. a longer field of view and a lower f-number.
- C. a longer depth of field and a higher f-number.
- D. a shorter field of view and a higher f-number.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Closing the aperture at a fixed focal length increases the f-number (aperture value), resulting in a longer depth of field. This means that a greater portion of the scene will be in focus, both in the foreground and background. A higher f-number indicates a smaller aperture, which allows less light to enter the lens but enhances the sharpness and clarity of the image over a larger depth. References:

NEW QUESTION # 304

For an outdoor camera, what is the potential consequence of not using this connector?

- A. yWater ingress
- B. jSlow PTZ control
- C. IR and heaters won't work
- D. Reduced bandwidth

Answer: A

Explanation:

For outdoor cameras, not using the proper connectors, such as weatherproof or waterproof connectors, can lead to water ingress. This can damage the camera's internal components, leading to malfunctions or complete failure of the device. Axis outdoor cameras are designed with specific connectors to ensure they are sealed against environmental factors like moisture, dust, and temperature extremes. According to Axis installation guides, ensuring the correct connectors are used is crucial for maintaining the camera's IP rating and long- term reliability.
