- C. business owners.
- D. the security operations center.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 878

Which of the following would help management determine the resources needed to mitigate a risk to the organization?

- A. Risk-based audit program
- B. Risk management balanced scorecard
- C. Risk analysis process
- D. Business impact analysis (BIA)

Answer: D

Explanation:

The business impact analysis (BIA) determines the possible outcome of a risk and is essential to determine the appropriate cost of control. The risk analysis process provides comprehensive data, but does not determine definite resources to mitigate the risk as does the BIA. The risk management balanced scorecard is a measuring tool for goal attainment. A risk-based audit program is used to focus the audit process on the areas of greatest importance to the organization.
