Huawei HCIA-Cloud Computing V5.5 Sample Questions (Q65-Q70):

NEW QUESTION # 65

Which of the following statements is false about host requirements during FusionCompute installation?

- A. The location where the host OS is booted first must be the location where the host OS is installed.
- B. FusionCompute can be installed even if there is only one host network port.
- C. If CPU virtualization is not enabled for a host, virtual machines cannot be created on the host.
- D. The disk requirements of the host where the VRM is located are the same as those of other compute nodes.

Answer: D

Explanation:

FusionCompute installation has clear host hardware and configuration requirements defined in the HCIA syllabus.

Option A is true. The boot device must match the installation location of the host operating system to ensure system stability.

Option C is true. CPU virtualization must be enabled in the BIOS (Intel VT-x or AMD-V). If not enabled, the host cannot run virtual machines, which is a mandatory prerequisite.

Option D is true. FusionCompute can be installed with a single network interface, although this is not recommended for production environments. Multiple NICs are preferred for traffic separation and high availability.

Option B is false. The host where the VRM is deployed has higher disk requirements than ordinary compute nodes because it runs management services, databases, and logs. Therefore, its disk requirements are not the same as other compute nodes.

Thus, the false statement is B.

NEW QUESTION # 66

Which of the following fusionAccess components run on virtual desktops?

- A. HAD
- B. ITA
- C. HDC
- D. WI

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 67

FusionCompute adopts hardware-assisted virtualization technology to reduce memory virtualization overhead.

- A. TRUE
- B. FALSE

Answer: A

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation (HCIA-Cloud Computing aligned):

Huawei FusionCompute leverages hardware-assisted virtualization technologies such as Intel VT-x, EPT, and AMD-V, which significantly reduce the overhead associated with CPU and memory virtualization.

Memory virtualization traditionally involved complex software-based address translation, which introduced performance overhead. With hardware-assisted features such as Extended Page Tables (EPT), memory mapping is handled directly by the CPU, improving efficiency and performance.

This approach is explicitly highlighted in HCIA-Cloud Computing materials as a key reason why FusionCompute delivers near-native performance for virtual machines.

Therefore, the statement is TRUE.

NEW QUESTION # 68

In FusionCompute, memory multiplexing is set based on the cluster. After the memory multiplexing function is enabled, the memory multiplexing policy will manage the allocation of physical memory, and the virtual machine can use all the physical memory when the memory is not tight.

- A. False
- B. True

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 69

HDP enables fusion axis components communication and real time data synchronization. It also ensures that components deployed in active/standby mode can update the status of each other at any time.

- A. false
- B. true

Answer: B
