NVIDIA-Certified-Professional Accelerated Data Science Sample Questions (Q110-Q115):

NEW QUESTION # 110

A data scientist is processing a dataset that is too large to fit into the memory of a single GPU. They decide to use Dask with cuDF to leverage multiple GPUs for accelerated computation.

Which of the following approaches ensures efficient parallelism when working with `dask_cudf`?

- A. Convert the dataset into a Dask cuDF dataframe and use `persist()` to keep it in GPU memory.
- B. Assign explicit chunks of data to each worker by manually dividing the dataset before passing it to Dask.
- C. Use a single-threaded scheduler to avoid contention when running on multiple GPUs.
- D. Use Dask futures to asynchronously submit GPU tasks and collect results when completed.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 111

Which of the following tools in the NVIDIA AI stack is specifically designed to accelerate the deployment of machine learning models for production by optimizing inference performance?

- A. DLA (Deep Learning Accelerator)
- B. Triton Inference Server
- C. cuBLAS
- D. cuML

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 112

You are tasked with optimizing the performance of an MLOps pipeline that uses GPU-accelerated workflows. After running initial benchmarks, you notice that the training time is higher than expected, despite the use of multiple GPUs.

What are the best strategies to optimize the GPU-accelerated workflow in this case? (Select two)

- A. Ensure efficient multi-GPU communication and synchronization strategies, such as using NCCL for distributed training.
- B. Disable gradient accumulation when using multi-GPU setups to increase communication efficiency.
- C. Reduce the number of GPUs used and focus on fine-tuning the hyperparameters for optimal performance on a single GPU.
- D. Increase the batch size to better utilize the multiple GPUs and reduce the number of updates to the model during training.
- E. Ensure that the model is distributed evenly across GPUs to prevent some GPUs from being underutilized.

Answer: A,E

NEW QUESTION # 113

You are working on an AI-driven customer behavior prediction project.

According to the CRISP-DM (Cross Industry Standard Process for Data Mining) methodology, what is the most critical task to complete during the Data Understanding phase?

- A. Selecting the most appropriate machine learning algorithm for the prediction task.
- B. Identifying and preparing feature engineering strategies to improve model accuracy.
- C. Deploying the model into a production environment for real-time inference.
- D. Acquiring and exploring the dataset to assess quality, completeness, and potential biases.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 114

You have a structured dataset containing 20 million records with missing values in several columns.

You need to fill missing values while ensuring that the approach is optimal for execution on NVIDIA GPUs.

Which method should you use?

- A. Use cuDF's .fillna() method to replace missing values in GPU memory
- B. Convert the dataset to a pandas DataFrame, fill missing values, and then convert it back to cuDF
- C. Load the dataset into Modin with a Dask backend and use .fillna() for parallel execution
- D. Drop all missing values using .dropna() instead of filling them, as GPU memory is limited

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 115
