You set up a sequencing ID for 50 gram, 100 gram, and 200 gram packages. You assign ranking values as 1, 5, and 10 respectively.

Expected planning behavior

Two complete campaign cycles of 30 days, each within the 60-days sequencing time horizon.
Three complete campaign cycles of 30 days, each within the 60-days sequencing time horizon.

Note: This question is part of a series of questions that present the same scenario. Each question in the series contains a unique solution that might meet the stated goals. Some question sets might have more than one correct solution, while others might not have a correct solution.

After you answer a question in this section, you will NOT be able to return to it. As a result, these questions will not appear in the review screen.

A company implements Dynamics 365 Supply Chain Management and configures the system to support process manufacturing. The company manufactures pain-relieving lotions. Several of the primary ingredients are delivered at different concentrations depending on the ingredient and vendor. Ingredient A is the primary active ingredient in the lotion. IngredientB is used as a compensating ingredient.

You need to ensure that the system is set up to support the manufacturing process.

Solution: Create a dimension-based product with configurations. Use a price model to calculate the different configurable option costs.

Does the solution meet the goal?

- A. No
- B. Yes

Antwort: A

Begründung:

No, the solution does not meet the goal. A dimension-based product with configurations is used for discrete manufacturing, not process manufacturing. A price model is used to calculate the cost of different configurations of a product, not the cost of different concentrations of an ingredient. For process manufacturing, you need to use a formula-based product with batch attributes and potency management. A formula defines the materials, ingredients, and outcomes of a specific process. Batch attributes are used to capture the characteristics of a batch of products or ingredients. Potency management is used to adjust the quantity of an ingredient based on its concentration or strength.
