EC-COUNCIL EC-Council Certified CISO (CCISO) Sample Questions (Q614-Q619):

NEW QUESTION # 614

Payment Card Industry (PCI) compliance requirements are based on what criteria?

- A. The size of the organization processing credit card data
- B. The duration card holder data is retained
- C. The types of cardholder data retained
- D. The number of transactions performed per year by an organization

Answer: D

Explanation:

PCI Compliance Levels:

PCI compliance requirements are categorized into levels based on the volume of credit card transactions processed annually.

- * Level 1: Over 6 million transactions per year.
- * Level 2: 1 to 6 million transactions per year.
- * Level 3: 20,000 to 1 million transactions per year.
- * Level 4: Less than 20,000 transactions per year.

Why This is Correct:

The number of transactions is the primary determinant of compliance level and dictates the level of scrutiny and reporting required.

Why Other Options Are Incorrect:

- * A & B: Data retention types and duration are relevant but not the basis for compliance levels.
- * C. Organization Size: Compliance levels are transaction-based, not dependent on organization size.

References:

PCI-DSS standards explicitly outline compliance criteria based on transaction volume, as emphasized by EC- Council CISO materials.

NEW QUESTION # 615

In the event of a cybersecurity breach within a publicly traded company, who bears the ultimate responsibility to the shareholders?

- A. Chief Executive Officer (CEO)
- B. Chief Financial Officer (CFO)
- C. Chief Information Security Officer (CISO)
- D. Chief Technology Officer (CTO)

Answer: A

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation (250-350 words)

According to EC-Council CCISO documentation, the Chief Executive Officer (CEO) bears the ultimate responsibility to shareholders for all material events impacting the organization, including cybersecurity breaches. While the CISO is responsible for designing and overseeing the security program, accountability at the shareholder level rests with executive leadership.

CCISO materials emphasize that cybersecurity is a business risk, not merely a technical issue. As such, the CEO is responsible for enterprise risk acceptance, disclosure decisions, regulatory reporting, and overall corporate governance. In publicly traded companies, cybersecurity incidents may materially affect stock value, investor confidence, and regulatory standing, all of which fall under CEO accountability.

The CTO and CISO provide technical and security leadership, and the CFO manages financial reporting and disclosures, but shareholder accountability remains with the CEO, who represents the organization at the board and investor level.

Therefore, Option D is correct.
