Appian Senior Developer Sample Questions (Q69-Q74):

NEW QUESTION # 69

You're building a new application to track job applications for a local health club.

The owner wants to have one group of individuals perform the initial application review for completeness, a second group to manage the interview process, and a third group to make the actual hiring decisions.

Which design element should be implemented to best support a memory efficient application?

- A. Break up the application into subprocesses representing each of the different stages of the process to reduce memory use.
- B. Create a synchronous process that accurately tracks a candidate's application from start to finish to ensure the hiring group has access to all the information necessary to make a decision.
- C. Create an entity-backed record for each of the open positions.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Breaking up the application into subprocesses for each stage allows each part to be short-lived and releases memory as each subprocess completes, resulting in a more memory-efficient application.

NEW QUESTION # 70

An insurance company's product details are currently distributed across numerous database tables, encompassing over 60 to 70 fields.

You need to implement a product comparison tool for business users to compare up to three insurance products simultaneously, with all the product details in a tabular format.

Refer to the following sample format:

Which object should be used to transform the data into the required format?

- A. VCCViews
- B. Stored procedure
- C. Record type with relationships

Answer: A

Explanation:

Database views are ideal for transforming complex, distributed product data into a single, flattened structure tailored for reporting or comparison. In this case, a view can pivot the 60-70 fields and organize them by attribute (e.g., Name, Type, Premium) across multiple product columns, enabling a tabular comparison layout like the one shown. Views also optimize performance and reduce transformation overhead in the interface layer.

NEW QUESTION # 71

Your client wants their customers to be able to schedule appointments directly from their website without going to an Appian user environment.

You need to build an embedded interface to be added to your client's web page. The style of the embedded interface should be consistent with the host web page.

Which three custom styling options can be configured in the Themes section of embedded interfaces?

(Choose three.)

- A. Two or three column layout

- B. Asymmetrical layout
- C. Web font stylesheet URL
- D. Font Family
- E. Page background color

Answer: C,D,E

Explanation:

Page background color - You can customize the background color to match the host webpage's theme.

Font family - You can set the font family to ensure the embedded interface aligns with the client's branding.

Web font stylesheet URL - This allows the use of custom web fonts, further aligning the style with the host site.

NEW QUESTION # 72

A seamless user experience (UX) is important for an application so that a user does not feel like they are moving through different applications. Often when many developers are working on the same project all together, this can be a concern.

How should you ensure that a seamless UX is maintained throughout the app?

- A. Create reusable expression rules to ensure that the same rules are being used throughout.
- B. Create and add reusable interface components to the Design Library so that developers can quickly and easily use reusable interfaces.
- C. Allow each developer to copy client provided mock-ups individually.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Creating and adding reusable interface components to the Design Library ensures consistency in look and feel across the application, allowing all developers to easily implement a seamless user experience.
