Salesforce Sample Questions (Q34-Q39):

NEW QUESTION # 34

Apex クラスは、期待されたコード カバレッジを達成しません。testsetup メソッドは、Apex クラスのメソッドを明示的に呼び出します。
開発者はコード カバレッジをどのように生成できますか?

- A. 開発者がテストしているクラスのメソッドに @testvisible を追加します。
- B. testsetup メソッドの代わりに、testsetup から Apex クラスメソッドを呼び出します。
- C. testSetup で system.assert() を使用して、値が返されていることを確認します。
- D. ユーザーを System,.runds() に渡す権限をユーザーが持っていることを確認します。

Answer: B

Explanation:
The solution to generate the code coverage is to call the Apex class method from a test method instead of the testSetup method. The testSetup method is used to create test data that is available to all test methods in the test class, but it does not contribute to the code coverage. The test methods are used to invoke the Apex class methods and verify the results using assertions, and they do contribute to the code coverage. The developer should move the call to the Apex class method from the testSetup method to a test method, and use the System.runAs() method to run the test as a specific user, if needed. Using System.assert() in testSetup to verify the values are being returned will not help, as it will only check the expected values, but it will not generate the code coverage. Verifying the user has permissions passing a user into System.runAs() will not help, as it will only run the test as a specific user, but it will not generate the code coverage. Adding @testVisible to the method in the class the developer is testing will not help, as it will only make the method accessible to the test class, but it will not generate the code coverage.
