Microsoft AI Business Professional Sample Questions (Q12-Q17):

NEW QUESTION # 12

You sign in to the Microsoft 365 Copilot app by using your work account as shown in the following exhibit

A colleague tells you that when they open the Microsoft 365 Copilot app, they have access to the Researcher agent. You need to access to the Researcher agent.

What should you do?

- A. Select Explore agents and then search for Researcher.
- B. Request a Microsoft 365 Copilot license from an administrator.
- C. Sign in to the Copilot app by using a personal account
- D. From Microsoft Edge, use your work account to sign in to <https://copilot.microsoft.com>

Answer: A

Explanation:

In Microsoft 365 Copilot, agents such as Researcher are accessed through the Agents experience within the Copilot app. If the user interface does not immediately display a specific agent, the correct action is to browse or search the available agents catalog. The exhibit shows the left navigation pane with an Explore agents option.

According to Microsoft AI Business Professional guidance, built-in and custom agents can be discovered and enabled through the Explore agents section. If the user already has the appropriate Copilot license and is signed in with their work account, there is no need to switch accounts or request another license.

Signing in through a browser does not change feature availability, and using a personal account would remove access to organizational features. Therefore, to access the Researcher agent, you should select Explore agents and search for Researcher.

NEW QUESTION # 15

You ask Microsoft 365 Copilot to create a report based on information from the web. You verify the response and discover that some information is fictional.

What is this an example of?

- A. fabrication
- B. overreliance
- C. deepfake
- D. bias
- E. prompt injection

Answer: A

Explanation:

This scenario is an example of fabrication, which is commonly referred to in generative AI contexts as a hallucination. Fabrication occurs when an AI system generates information that appears credible but is factually incorrect, invented, or unsupported by verifiable sources.

According to Microsoft AI Business Professional guidance, large language models predict text based on patterns learned during training. They do not "know" facts in the human sense. As a result, when asked to generate reports using web-based information, the model may produce plausible-sounding but fictional details if sufficient grounding or reliable sources are not provided.

Deepfake refers specifically to synthetic media such as manipulated images, audio, or video. Overreliance describes a human behavior risk where users trust AI outputs without verification. Prompt injection is a malicious technique designed to manipulate model behavior. Bias refers to systematic unfairness in outputs.

In this case, the presence of fictional information in the generated report directly aligns with fabrication, making option B the correct answer.
