CFA Institute Sustainable Investing Certificate (CFA-SIC) Exam Sustainable-Investing Prüfungsfragen mit Lösungen (Q754-Q759):

754. Frage
Which of the following would most likely see its estimate of intrinsic value increased by analysts?

- A. A company facing significant environmental regulations
- B. A company with high climate-related risk
- C. A company having launched a service that reduces customers' electricity usage

Antwort: C

Begründung:
A company that has launched a service to reduce customers' electricity usage is likely to see its intrinsic value increased by analysts. This is because such a service directly addresses the growing demand for energy efficiency and sustainability. The MSCI ESG Ratings Methodology highlights that companies which can capitalize on opportunities related to environmental efficiency and innovation are likely to benefit from a better risk and return profile. This aligns with the broader trend towards sustainability and the reduction of energy consumption, making the company more attractive to investors focused on long-term value creation.

755. Frage
Which of the following is an example of secondary data?

- A. A letter to shareholders
- B. A Bloomberg Disclosure score
- C. A news article

Antwort: C

Begründung:
In the context of data used for analysis, primary data is original and collected firsthand by the researcher.
Examples include surveys, interviews, or direct observations. Secondary data, on the other hand, is data that has been previously collected by someone else and is used for purposes other than those for which it was originally collected.
Step 2: Examples of Primary and Secondary Data
Primary Data: Data gathered through surveys, interviews, or experiments.
Secondary Data: Data gathered from existing sources such as books, articles, reports, and other publications.
Step 3: Application to the Provided Choices
Given the options:
A news article
A letter to shareholders
A Bloomberg Disclosure score
Analysis:
News Article (A): This is secondary data because it is published information that has been gathered, reported, and possibly analyzed by someone other than the researcher.
Letter to Shareholders (B): This is typically primary data as it is a direct communication from the company to its shareholders, often containing firsthand insights or original information about the company's performance and future outlook.
Bloomberg Disclosure Score (C): This is also secondary data as it is a score derived from the analysis of various data points that Bloomberg collects and compiles.
Step 4: Verification with ESG Investing References
According to the MSCI ESG Ratings Methodology, secondary data sources include:
Company disclosures (e.g., 10-K reports, sustainability reports)
Government databases
Media sources (e.g., news articles)
NGO reports
As highlighted in the ESG Ratings Methodology document: "3400+ media sources monitored daily (global and local news sources, governments, NGOs)" are used as part of secondary data sources to assess companies' ESG risks and opportunities.
Conclusion: A news article is an example of secondary data as it is collected and published by an entity separate from the entity conducting the analysis.

756. Frage
An advantage of the carbon footprinting approach to environmental risk analysis is that it allows for:

- A. comparisons to global benchmarks.
- B. measuring and valuing nature's role in decision-making.
- C. measuring potential investment risks related to the physical impacts of climate change.

Antwort: A

Begründung:
Carbon footprinting allows investors and companies to compare their emissions to global benchmarks, providing a standard metric for measuring environmental performance and identifying areas for improvement.

757. Frage
In the context of effective corporate governance, the use of alternative performance metrics (APMs) most directly raises questions about:

- A. Reporting and transparency
- B. Director independence
- C. Board structure

Antwort: A

Begründung:
Alternative Performance Metrics (APMs)refer tonon-GAAP (Generally Accepted Accounting Principles) financial measuresthat companies use toadjust reported earnings(e.g., EBITDA adjustments, pro forma earnings). The use of APMs raises concerns aboutreporting transparency, as they may be used tomask poor financial performanceormanipulate investor perceptions.
Strong corporate governance requires companies toclearly disclose the rationale for APMs, ensuring consistency and avoiding misleading representations.

758. Frage
Which of the following ownership mechanisms best protects minority shareholders?

- A. Both dual-class shares and pre-emptive rights
- B. Pre-emptive rights only
- C. Dual-class shares only

Antwort: B

Begründung:
Pre-emptive rightsprovideminority shareholders with the ability to maintain their proportional ownershipduring new equity issuances, thus protecting them fromdilution. In contrast,dual-class sharescreatedifferent voting rightsand canweaken the influence of minority shareholders, not protect them. Therefore, only pre-emptive rights (option B) offer genuine protection for minority investors against controlling shareholders or dilution events.
