VMware Avi Load Balancer 30.x Administrator Sample Questions (Q160-Q165):

NEW QUESTION # 160

An application requires load balancing for both a TCP-based control channel on port 5001 and a UDP-based data stream on port 5002. An administrator wants to create a single Virtual Service to handle both. Which features of an L4 Virtual Service make this possible?

- A. The System-L4 Application Profile must be modified to include a custom UDP setting.
- B. It is not possible; a separate Virtual Service must be created for TCP and UDP.
- C. A single Virtual Service can be configured with multiple Service Ports, one for TCP and one for UDP.
- D. A DataScript must be used to differentiate between the TCP and UDP traffic.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 161

An administrator is configuring the Analytics Profile for a Virtual Service and wants to reduce the amount of log data being stored. The goal is to stop logging routine, successful HTTP 200 OK responses, but to continue logging all errors and other significant events. What is the most effective way to configure this?

Analytics Profile Settings

- Log all Requests: [ ? ]
- Non-Significant Logs:
  - Enabled: [ ? ]
  - Throttling (%): [ ? ]
- Significant Logs:
  - Enabled: [ ? ]

- A. Disable "Significant Logs".
- B. Disable "Log all Requests" and set "Non-Significant Log Throttling" to 0%.
- C. Enable "Log all Requests" and set "Non-Significant Log Throttling" to 100%.
- D. Disable "Log all Requests" and disable "Non-Significant Logs".

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 162

An application had an outage during an Avi upgrade. The Service Engine Group assigned to the Virtual Service is using the default configuration. What is the likely reason for this outage?

- A. Firewall rules were not configured for the failover Service Engine
- B. This is by design since Service Engine upgrades are disruptive
- C. The Virtual Service was not scaled out
- D. There was a global internet outage

Answer: C

Explanation:

Avi upgrades can be performed with minimal disruption when Virtual Services have sufficient Service Engine redundancy. VMware Avi documentation for upgrades explains that upgrades are disruptive for Virtual Services running in Elastic HA N+M Buffer mode when the Virtual Service is placed on only one Service Engine and is not scaled out. The default Service Engine Group configuration commonly results in a Virtual Service being placed on a single active Service Engine unless it is manually or automatically scaled out. During a Service Engine upgrade, traffic can be interrupted if there is no additional active Service Engine already carrying that Virtual Service. Therefore, the most likely cause of the outage is that the Virtual Service was not scaled out.

NEW QUESTION # 163

What is the maximum number of virtual network adapters that can be used on a single Service Engine running in a vSphere environment?

- A. 0
- B. 1
- C. 2
- D. 3

Answer: B

Explanation:

In a VMware vSphere environment, an Avi Service Engine is deployed as a virtual machine with virtual network adapters. Broadcom's Avi documentation references Service Engine VM adapters as network adapter 1 through network adapter 10. Adapter 1 is normally used for management, while the remaining adapters can be used for data, VIP, or backend connectivity depending on the cloud and network design. The documentation also references the "remaining nine data interfaces," which confirms that the Service Engine VM can have a total of ten virtual network adapters. Therefore, the maximum number of virtual network adapters that can be used on a single Service Engine in vSphere is 10 .

NEW QUESTION # 164

An Operator is troubleshooting an application and needs to find the public-facing IP address that clients use to access it. In the context of the Avi object model, which object's configuration would contain this IP address?

- A. The Pool
- B. The Health Monitor
- C. The Service Engine Group
- D. The Virtual Service

Answer: D
