NEW QUESTION # 50

Of the choices provided, which are the three most appropriate use cases for Appian?

- A. The customer needs to have one site tab for each of their seven personas
- B. The customer needs to be able to embed the application within their own web page
- C. The customer needs to be able to run their application in a browser
- D. The customer needs to be able to run their application on mobile devices
- E. The customer needs to perform large-scale extract, transform, and load (ETL) operations

Answer: A,C,D

Explanation:

Appian is a low-code platform designed for building enterprise applications with a focus on flexibility, user experience, and integration capabilities. The most appropriate use cases for Appian include:

Mobile Compatibility (B):

Appian supports mobile-first design, allowing applications to be easily accessed and used on mobile devices without requiring separate development efforts.

This capability is critical for businesses that need their workforce to access applications on the go.

Multiple Site Tabs for Personas (C):

Appian allows for the creation of different site tabs for different user personas, each with a tailored user experience.

This is ideal for organizations with distinct user groups who need customized interfaces and access to specific parts of the application.

Browser-Based Application (D):

Appian applications are web-based and can be accessed directly from a browser, ensuring easy access and a consistent user experience across different platforms.

Why Not Other Options?:

A . Large-Scale ETL Operations: Appian is not primarily designed for heavy data extraction, transformation, and loading (ETL) tasks, which are typically handled by specialized ETL tools.

E . Embedding in Web Pages: While Appian allows for embedding certain components, it is not the primary focus or strength of the platform compared to full-featured applications.

NEW QUESTION # 51

Your team is developing an application in which users can submit SOW requests. The application homepage in sites should contain a link that when pressed, navigates users through the request forms within the site.

Which Appian link type should be used on the homepage for new request submissions?

- A. Dynamic Link
- B. Start Process Link
- C. Submit Link
- D. Authorization Link

Answer: B

Explanation:

The "Start Process Link" in Appian is used to initiate a process directly from a site page. In this case, when users press the link on the homepage, it should navigate them through the request forms within the site. The Start Process Link is designed for scenarios where a new process instance needs to be started, such as submitting a Statement of Work (SOW) request.

Start Process Link Overview:

This link type allows users to start a new process directly, leading them into the forms or steps defined in the process model. It is ideal for initiating workflows, such as submitting new requests or forms within an application.

Why Not Other Options?:

- A . Authorization Link: Typically used for authorization or access control, not for starting a new process.
- B . Submit Link: Used for submitting forms within a process, not for starting a new process.
- C . Dynamic Link: Provides general navigation or actions within an interface but does not start a process.

The Start Process Link is the appropriate choice to navigate users through the request submission forms in the application.

- C. Connecting to database management systems (e.g., Oracle, MySQL, Microsoft SQL Server)
- D. Automating business processes with complex workflow
- E. Designing effective user interfaces by combining available UI components

Answer: C,D,E

Explanation:

Connecting to Database Management Systems (C): One of Appian's core capabilities is its ability to connect with various database management systems. This allows for seamless data integration, retrieval, and management, enabling applications to interact with databases like Oracle, MySQL, and Microsoft SQL Server, among others. Appian Documentation - Database Connections

Designing Effective User Interfaces by Combining Available UI Components (D): Appian provides a wide range of UI components that can be combined to design effective and user-friendly interfaces. This capability allows developers to create intuitive and interactive applications that meet user requirements. Appian Documentation - User Interface Design

Automating Business Processes with Complex Workflow (E): Appian excels in automating business processes, especially those that involve complex workflows. Its workflow automation capabilities allow for the orchestration of tasks, approvals, and other process activities, making it a powerful tool for process-driven applications. Appian Documentation - Workflow Automation Note: Building highly-interactive reporting or data exploration applications (A) is possible in Appian, but it's not the platform's primary focus.
