F5 BIG-IP Administration Data Plane Configuration Sample Questions (Q26-Q31):

NEW QUESTION # 26
A BIG-IP Administrator adds new pool members into an existing, highly utilized pool. Soon after, there are reports that the application is failing to load for some users.
What pool-level setting should the BIG-IP Administrator check?

- A. Availability Requirement
- B. Allow SNAT
- C. Slow Ramp Time
- D. Action On Service Down

Answer: C

Explanation:
Slow Ramp Time prevents new pool members from receiving a full share of traffic immediately, allowing applications to warm up gradually.

NEW QUESTION # 27
A Standard Virtual Server reports poor network performance for Internet-based clients.
What configuration should be applied?

- A. Client TCP: f5-tcp-wan / Server TCP: f5-tcp-lan
- B. Client TCP: f5-tcp-lan / Server TCP: f5-tcp-wan
- C. Client TCP: f5-tcp-optimized
- D. Client TCP: f5-tcp-lan

Answer: A

Explanation:
WAN TCP profiles are optimized for high latency and packet loss typical of Internet clients, while LAN profiles are ideal for backend servers.

NEW QUESTION # 28
Refer to the exhibit.

A BIG-IP Administrator creates a new Virtual Server to load balance SSH traffic. Users are unable to log on to the servers.
What should the BIG-IP Administrator do to resolve the issue? (Choose one answer)

- A. Set HTTP Profile to None
- B. Set Protocol to UDP
- C. Set Source Address to 10.1.1.2
- D. Set Destination Address/Mask to 0.0.0.0/0

Answer: A

Explanation:
SSH is a Layer 4 TCP-based protocol that operates on TCP port 22 and does not use HTTP in any capacity. In the exhibit, the Virtual Server is configured with an HTTP Profile applied, which is inappropriate for SSH traffic and causes connection failures.

According to the BIG-IP Administration: Data Plane Configuration documentation:

An HTTP profile must only be applied to Virtual Servers handling HTTP or HTTPS traffic.

When an HTTP profile is attached, BIG-IP expects HTTP headers and attempts to parse application-layer data.

Non-HTTP protocols such as SSH, FTP (control), SMTP, and other raw TCP services will fail if an HTTP profile is enabled.

Why the other options are incorrect:

A . Set Protocol to UDP

SSH uses TCP, not UDP. Changing the protocol would break SSH entirely.

B . Set Source Address to 10.1.1.2

The source address setting controls client access restrictions and is unrelated to protocol parsing issues.

C . Set Destination Address/Mask to 0.0.0.0/0

The destination address is already valid for a specific SSH service and does not impact protocol handling.

Correct Resolution:

The BIG-IP Administrator should remove the HTTP Profile (set it to None) so the Virtual Server functions as a pure Layer 4 TCP service, allowing SSH connections to pass through successfully.

NEW QUESTION # 29

A Standard Virtual Server reports poor performance for Internet users.

What TCP profile configuration should be applied?

- A. Client: f5-tcp-optimized
- B. Client: f5-tcp-lan / Server: f5-tcp-wan
- C. Client: f5-tcp-wan / Server: f5-tcp-lan
- D. Client: f5-tcp-lan

Answer: C

Explanation:

WAN-optimized TCP profiles improve performance for high-latency Internet clients, while LAN profiles are optimal for backend servers.

NEW QUESTION # 30

The BIG-IP Administrator is investigating whether better TCP performance is possible for a virtual server.

Which built-in profile should be tried first? (Choose one answer)

- A. f5-tcp-legacy
- B. No option
- C. f5-tcp-progressive
- D. f5-tcp-mobile

Answer: C

Explanation:

BIG-IP provides several built-in TCP profiles optimized for different traffic patterns and network conditions. When attempting to improve general TCP performance, the recommended starting point is f5-tcp-progressive.

According to the BIG-IP Administration: Data Plane Configuration documentation:

f5-tcp-progressive is designed as a balanced, general-purpose TCP optimization profile.

It dynamically adjusts TCP behavior to improve throughput and latency for most enterprise applications.

It is the recommended first-choice profile when tuning TCP performance before moving to more specialized profiles.

Why the other options are incorrect:

A . f5-tcp-legacy

This profile exists for backward compatibility and does not include modern TCP optimizations.

C . f5-tcp-mobile

This profile is optimized specifically for high-latency, lossy mobile networks and is not suitable for general-purpose environments.

D . No option

BIG-IP explicitly provides built-in TCP profiles for performance tuning; using none would forgo optimization opportunities.

Correct Resolution:

The administrator should first apply f5-tcp-progressive to evaluate potential TCP performance improvements before considering more specialized profiles.
