CompTIA A+ Core 1 Exam (2026) Sample Questions (Q117-Q122):

NEW QUESTION # 117

An IT specialist compares Bluetooth and NFC technologies for mobile device connectivity. Which of the following statements accurately describes a key difference between the two?

- A. NFC consumes more power than Bluetooth, making it less suitable for devices in which battery conservation is crucial.
- B. NFC works best within a few centimeters, but Bluetooth can connect devices that are up to 32ft (10m) apart.
- C. NFC is faster than Bluetooth when transferring large files between devices.
- D. NFC requires pairing with the receiving host, whereas Bluetooth just needs the available connection.

Answer: B

Explanation:

NFC (Near-Field Communication) operates at very short ranges -- usually less than 4cm, and is ideal for quick, secure transactions like contactless payments. Bluetooth supports longer ranges (up to 10 meters or 32 feet) and is suited for ongoing connections like wireless headsets or file transfers.

NEW QUESTION # 118

A small company recently added VoIP through its ISP. Users report intermittent call quality issues during peak hours. Which of the following steps should the IT administrator take to solve the issue?

- A. Route calls through a gigabit port.
- B. Increase the VoIP bit rate.
- C. Configure the VLAN to split services.
- D. Install a shielded network cable.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation

CompTIA A+ VoIP and network performance topics stress the importance of Quality of Service (QoS) and traffic separation.

Creating a separate VLAN for VoIP:

- * Reduces congestion
- * Prioritizes voice traffic
- * Prevents voice packets from competing with data traffic
- * Improves latency, jitter, and packet loss issues during peak hours

This directly fixes intermittent VoIP quality issues.

Why the other options are incorrect

- B). Route calls through a gigabit port - Internal port speed is not the bottleneck; congestion is.
- C). Shielded cable - Does not solve bandwidth or QoS issues.
- D). Increase bit rate - Makes the problem worse, requiring more bandwidth.

NEW QUESTION # 119

A user is experiencing multiple issues with an in-place upgrade of a laptop's operating system.

The built-in camera is unresponsive, and the user is unable to pair the device with any Bluetooth accessories. Which of the following are most likely causing these issues? (Choose two.)

- A. Disabled settings following the upgrade
- B. Outdated drivers
- C. Corrupted registry entries
- D. Full storage
- E. Incorrect configuration of the settings
- F. OS and device version incompatibility

Answer: A,B

Explanation:

Outdated drivers: Device functionality issues after an OS upgrade are often caused by incompatible or outdated drivers.

Disabled settings: Some features may be disabled during the upgrade process, requiring re-enablement.

NEW QUESTION # 120

An employee's screen keeps flashing. Sometimes the picture goes out and comes back. The employee checks the power cord and confirms the device is plugged in fully. Which of the following should a technician check for first?

- A. Failing graphics card
- B. Swollen motherboard capacitor
- C. Loose video cable
- D. Conflicting drivers

Answer: C

Explanation:

Intermittent display issues, such as a screen flashing on and off, are most commonly caused by a loose or faulty video cable connection. If the power cable is confirmed secure, the next logical step is to check the video (data) cable between the monitor and the computer.

From the CompTIA A+ 220-1101 Official Study Guide, Objective 4.1 - Troubleshoot common hardware problems:

"Common video issues include intermittent display or loss of picture. The most likely causes are a loose or faulty video cable or connector. Check all cable connections before troubleshooting internal components." Verified Source:
