Microsoft GitHub Advanced Security Sample Questions (Q65-Q70):

NEW QUESTION # 65

How would you build your code within the CodeQL analysis workflow? (Each answer presents a complete solution. Choose two.)

- A. Ignore paths.
- B. Upload compiled binaries.
- C. Implement custom build steps.
- D. Use CodeQL's init action.
- E. Use CodeQL's autobuild action.
- F. Use jobs.analyze.runs-on.

Answer: C,E

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation:

When setting up CodeQL analysis for compiled languages, there are two primary methods to build your code:

GitHub Docs

Autobuild: CodeQL attempts to automatically build your codebase using the most likely build method. This is suitable for standard build processes.

GitHub Docs

Custom Build Steps: For complex or non-standard build processes, you can implement custom build steps by specifying explicit build commands in your workflow. This provides greater control over the build process.

GitHub Docs

The `init` action initializes the CodeQL analysis but does not build the code. The `jobs.analyze.runs-on` specifies the operating system for the runner but is not directly related to building the code. Uploading compiled binaries is not a method supported by CodeQL for analysis.

NEW QUESTION # 66

Secret scanning will scan:

- A. Any Git repository.
- B. The GitHub repository.
- C. A continuous integration system.
- D. External services.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Secret scanning is a feature provided by GitHub that scans the contents of your GitHub repositories for known types of secrets, such as API keys and tokens. It operates within the GitHub environment and does not scan external systems, services, or repositories outside of GitHub. Its primary function is to prevent the accidental exposure of sensitive information within your GitHub-hosted code.

NEW QUESTION # 67

Which of the following information can be found in a repository's Security tab?

- A. Access management
- B. Two-factor authentication (2FA) options
- C. GHAS settings
- D. Number of alerts per GHAS feature

Answer: D

Explanation:

The Security tab in a GitHub repository provides a central location for viewing security-related information, especially when GitHub Advanced Security is enabled. The following can be accessed:

Number of alerts related to:

Code scanning

Secret scanning

Dependency (Dependabot) alerts

Summary and visibility into open, closed, and dismissed security issues.

It does not show 2FA options, access control settings, or configuration panels for GHAS itself. Those belong to account or organization-level settings.

NEW QUESTION # 68

What happens when you enable secret scanning on a private repository?

- A. Your team is subscribed to security alerts.
- B. GitHub performs a read-only analysis on the repository.
- C. Dependency review, secret scanning, and code scanning are enabled.
- D. Repository administrators can view Dependabot alerts.

Answer: B

Explanation:

When secret scanning is enabled on a private repository, GitHub performs a read-only analysis of the repository's contents. This includes the entire Git history and files to identify strings that match known secret patterns or custom-defined patterns. GitHub does not alter the repository, and enabling secret scanning does not automatically enable code scanning or dependency review - each must be configured separately.

NEW QUESTION # 69

When configuring code scanning with CodeQL, what are your options for specifying additional queries? (Each answer presents part of the solution. Choose two.)

- A. Packs
- B. Queries
- C. github/codeql
- D. Scope

Answer: A,B

Explanation:

You can customize CodeQL scanning by including additional query packs or by specifying individual queries:

Packs: These are reusable collections of CodeQL queries bundled into a single package.

Queries: You can point to specific files or directories containing .ql queries to include in the analysis.

github/codeql refers to a pack by name but is not a method or field. Scope is not a valid field used for configuration in this context.
