HP Advanced HPE Compute Architect Solutions Written Exam Sample Questions (Q59-Q64):

NEW QUESTION # 59

An HPE Private Cloud AI customer is interested in fine-tuning with Ray and asks how to submit jobs to the Ray cluster running on HPE AI Essentials.

What should you explain?

- A. They can install the Ray Tune framework from the administration settings.
- B. They can run a notebook server on HPE AI Essentials and use its Ray kernel.
- C. They can submit jobs directly from the Ray dashboard, which opens from the HPE AI Essentials Tools & Frameworks page.
- D. They can use the HPE AI Essentials API Ray endpoint.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Do not submit jobs directly from the Ray dashboard. HPE documentation says to connect to the Ray cluster, and HPE recommends JobSubmissionClient for Ray job submission; the Ray dashboard is mainly for monitoring/debugging.

NEW QUESTION # 60

A customer wants you to design a solution for effectively near 100% liquid cooling for their HPE Cray XD systems.

Which solution should you propose?

- A. Closed-loop liquid cooling for the HPE Cray XD Systems plus an HPE ARCS
- B. 70% DLC plus a closed-loop liquid cooling system for the HPE Cray XD Systems
- C. 70% DLC for the HPE Cray XD systems plus an HPE RDHX
- D. 100% DLC for the HPE Cray XD systems

Answer: D

Explanation:

HPE Cray XD DLC removes the main component heat, while HPE RDHX captures the remaining hot exhaust air and transfers it to facility water, enabling effectively near-100% heat removal to liquid cooling.

NEW QUESTION # 61

You are proposing 40 HPE Cray XD670 systems with NVIDIA H200 GPUs to a customer. You also propose HPE Performance Cluster Manager (HPCM).

What is one benefit of HPCM that you should emphasize?

- A. HPCM provides GPU-compatible scheduling software for HPC jobs.
- B. HPCM allows customers to monitor and optimize power consumption, including for NVIDIA GPUs.
- C. HPCM enables the systems to support hardware root of trust and OpenSSL.
- D. HPCM integrates with HPE Private Cloud AI to provide a single interface for monitoring system's health.

Answer: B

Explanation:

HPE Performance Cluster Manager integrates with NVIDIA DCGM for GPU diagnostics, health, metrics, and alerts, and HPE states it aggregates GPU power monitoring and power capping across the cluster.

NEW QUESTION # 62

A customer complains that firmware and BIOS settings drift between identical Synergy compute modules over time.

What should you recommend to enforce consistency?

- A. Use server profile templates and monitor for profile compliance
- B. Schedule quarterly SPP updates from the Composer
- C. Enable iLO Federation groups across all frames
- D. Apply server profiles created individually per compute module

Answer: A

Explanation:

Server profile templates define the desired configuration (firmware baseline, BIOS settings, connections, boot order). HPE OneView flags profiles that deviate from the template as non-compliant and allows remediation, which prevents configuration drift.

NEW QUESTION # 63

Which statement correctly describes services for HPE ProLiant servers using direct liquid cooling (DLC)?

- A. HPE provides DLC consulting services and encourages partners to offer their own installation services.
- B. HPE provides optional DLC installation services, which partners can supplement with their own.
- C. HPE Direct Liquid Cool Startup services must be included for the first rack of servers that a customer deploys in a data center, but not for additional racks.
- D. HPE Direct Liquid Cool Startup services are required for all racks of servers using DLC.

Answer: B

Explanation:

HPE ProLiant DLC services are not mandatory for every rack or only the first rack. HPE positions installation/startup services as optional lifecycle service choices, and HPE Authorized Channel Partners can be involved in service delivery.
