- A. To investigate allegations of privacy violations internationally
- B. To arbitrate disputes between countries over jurisdiction for privacy laws
- C. To promote universal cooperation among privacy authorities
- D. To protect the interests of privacy consumer groups worldwide

問題 #158

A company based in United States receives information about its UK subsidiary's employees in connection with the centralized HR service it provides. How can the UK company ensure an adequate level of data protection that would allow the restricted data transfer to continue?

- A. By submitting to the ICO a new application for the UK BCRs using the UK BCR application forms, as their existing authorized EU BCRs are not recognized.
- B. By allowing each employee the option to opt-out to the restricted transfer, as it is necessary to send their names in order to book the sales bonuses.
- C. By revising the contract with the United States parent company incorporating EU SCCs, as it continues to be valid for restricted transfers under the UK regime.
- D. By signing up to an approved code of conduct under UK GDPR to demonstrate compliance with its requirements, both for the parent and the subsidiary companies.

答案： C

解題說明：

The UK company can ensure an adequate level of data protection for the restricted data transfer to the US parent company by using the EU Standard Contractual Clauses (SCCs), which are contractual terms that provide safeguards for personal data transferred from the UK to third countries. The UK GDPR recognizes the validity of the EU SCCs adopted before the end of the Brexit transition period, and allows the UK Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) to issue new SCCs in the future.

SCENARIO

Please use the following to answer the next QUESTION :

Matt went into his son's bedroom one evening and found him stretched out on his bed typing on his laptop. "Doing your network?" Matt asked hopefully.

"No," the boy said. "I'm filling out a survey."

Matt looked over his son's shoulder at his computer screen. "What kind of survey?" "It's asking QUESTIONS about my opinions." "Let me see," Matt said, and began reading the list of QUESTIONS that his son had already answered. "It's asking your opinions about the government and citizenship. That's a little odd. You're only ten." Matt wondered how the web link to the survey had ended up in his son's email inbox. Thinking the message might have been sent to his son by mistake he opened it and read it. It had come from an entity called the Leadership Project, and the content and the graphics indicated that it was intended for children. As Matt read further he learned that kids who took the survey were automatically registered in a contest to win the first book in a series about famous leaders.

To Matt, this clearly seemed like a marketing ploy to solicit goods and services to children. He asked his son if he had been prompted to give information about himself in order to take the survey. His son told him he had been asked to give his name, address, telephone number, and date of birth, and to answer QUESTIONS about his favorite games and toys.

Matt was concerned. He doubted if it was legal for the marketer to collect information from his son in the way that it was. Then he noticed several other commercial emails from marketers advertising products for children in his son's inbox, and he decided it was time to report the incident to the proper authorities.

How could the marketer have best changed its privacy management program to meet COPPA "Safe Harbor" requirements?

- A. By making a COPPA privacy notice available on website
- B. By participating in an approved self-regulatory program
- C. By regularly assessing the security risks to consumer privacy
- D. By receiving FTC approval for the content of its emails

答案： B

解題說明：

COPPA safe harbor programs comprise industry groups that self-regulate their member-operators and establish their own guidelines and requirements that must guarantee the same or greater protection for children as the standards set forth in the COPPA rule.

問題 #160

Which statute is considered part of U.S. federal privacy law?

- A. The Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act.
- B. SB 1386.
- C. The Fair Credit Reporting Act.
- D. The e-Privacy Directive.

答案： C

The Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) is considered part of U.S. federal privacy law because it regulates the collection, use, and disclosure of personal information by consumer reporting agencies, such as credit bureaus, background check companies, and tenant screening services.

The FCRA aims to protect the privacy, accuracy, and fairness of consumer credit information, and to ensure that consumers have access to and control over their own credit reports. The FCRA also imposes obligations on users and furnishers of consumer reports, such as creditors, employers, insurers, and landlords, to obtain consent, provide notice, and correct errors when using consumer reports for various purposes. The FCRA is enforced by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) and other federal agencies, as well as by private lawsuits and state attorneys general. The FCRA was enacted in 1970 and has been amended several times, most notably by the Fair and Accurate Credit Transactions Act of 2003 (FACTA), which added provisions on identity theft prevention, fraud alerts, free credit reports, and disposal of consumer information.
