Fortinet NSE 5 - FortiSIEM 6.3 Sample Questions (Q45-Q50):

NEW QUESTION # 45

Refer to the exhibit.

Attribute	Order	Display As	Row	Move
Event Receive Time
Reporting IP
Event Type
Raw Event Log
COUNT(Matched Events)

A FortiSIEM administrator wants to group some attributes for a report, but is not able to do so successfully. As shown in the exhibit, why are some of the fields highlighted in red?

- A. Unique attributes cannot be grouped.
- B. No RAW Event Log attribute is available for devices.
- C. The attribute COUNT(Matched events) is an invalid expression.
- D. The Event Receive Time attribute is not available for logs.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Grouping Attributes in Reports: When creating reports in FortiSIEM, certain attributes can be grouped to summarize and organize the data.

Unique Attributes: Attributes that are unique for each event cannot be grouped because they do not provide a meaningful aggregation or summary.

Red Highlighting Explanation: The red highlighting in the exhibit indicates attributes that cannot be grouped together due to their unique nature. These unique attributes include Event Receive Time, Reporting IP, Event Type, Raw Event Log, and COUNT(Matched Events).

Attribute Characteristics:

- * Event Receive Time is unique for each event.
- * Reporting IP and Event Type can vary greatly, making grouping them impractical in this context.
- * Raw Event Log represents the unprocessed log data, which is also unique.
- * COUNT(Matched Events) is a calculated field, not suitable for grouping.

References: FortiSIEM 6.3 User Guide, Reporting section, explains the constraints on grouping attributes in reports.

NEW QUESTION # 46

What is a prerequisite for a FortiSIEM supervisor with a worker deployment, using the proprietary flat file database?

- A. The CMDB database must be on NFS
- B. The archive mount must be on a local disk
- C. The event database must be on NFS
- D. The event database must be on a local disk

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 47

When configuring collectors located in geographically separated sites, what ports must be open on a front end firewall?

- A. HTTPS, from the Internet to the collector and from the collector to the FortiSIEM cluster
- B. HTTPS, from the Internet to the collector
- C. HTTPS, from the collector to the worker upload settings address only
- D. HTTPS, from the collector to the supervisor and worker upload settings addresses

Answer: D

Explanation:

* FortiSIEM Architecture: In FortiSIEM, collectors gather data from various sources and send this data to supervisors and workers within the FortiSIEM architecture.

* Communication Requirements: For collectors to effectively send data to the FortiSIEM system, specific communication channels must be open.

* Port Usage: The primary port used for secure communication between the collectors and the FortiSIEM infrastructure is HTTPS (port 443).

* Network Configuration: When configuring collectors in geographically separated sites, the HTTPS port must be open for the collectors to communicate with both the supervisor and the worker upload settings addresses. This ensures that the collected data can be securely transmitted to the appropriate processing and analysis components.

* Reference: FortiSIEM 6.3 Administration Guide, Network Ports section details the necessary ports for communication within the FortiSIEM architecture.

NEW QUESTION # 48

Which three ports can be used to send Syslogs to FortiSIEM? (Choose three.)

- A. TCP 1470
- B. UDP 162
- C. TCP 514
- D. UDP 514
- E. UDP 9999

Answer: A,C,D

NEW QUESTION # 49

What operating system is FortiSIEM based on?

- A. Microsoft Windows
- B. Cent OS
- C. Ubuntu
- D. RedHat

Answer: B
