NEW QUESTION # 13

UC's scale of Salesforce deployment has increased over time, leading to complexities. UC is finding too many bugs in the deployed code, which has become a challenge to the delivery team. The team wants to reduce the amount of bugs by ensuring all the developed code is reviewed, tested, and validated in the upstream deployment process. Which three development practices will be best suited to address UC's concerns? Choose

3

- A. Encourage the development team to be self-organizing.
- B. Enable developer teams to do peer code review.
- C. Incorporate test-driven deployment into the project structure.
- D. Enable a short and timely feedback loop with customers
- E. Use continuous integration with automation testing.

Answer: B,C,E

Explanation:

Explanation

Using continuous integration with automation testing is a development practice that will help to reduce the amount of bugs, as it allows the code to be built and tested frequently and automatically. Encouraging the development team to do peer code review is a development practice that will help to reduce the amount of bugs, as it allows the code to be checked and improved by other developers. Incorporating test-driven development into the project structure is a development practice that will help to reduce the amount of bugs, as it requires the developers to write tests before writing code and ensure that the code meets the test criteria. Enabling the development team to be self-organizing is not a development practice that will help to reduce the amount of bugs, as it does not directly affect the quality of the code. Enabling a short and timely feedback loop with customers is not a development practice that will help to reduce the amount of bugs, as it does not directly affect the quality of the code.

NEW QUESTION # 14

Due to several issues, Universal Containers wants to have better control over the changes made in the production org and to be able to track them. Which two options will streamline the process? Choose 2 answers

- A. Use the Force.com IDE to automate deployment to the production.org
- B. Allow no code/configuration changes directly in the production.org
- C. Make all code/configuration changes directly in the production.org.
- D. Use Metadata API to automate deployment to the production.org

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

Explanation

Allowing no code/configuration changes directly in the production org and using Metadata API to automate deployment to the production org are two options that will streamline the process. These options help to enforce a consistent and controlled deployment process that avoids manual errors and conflicts in the production org.

NEW QUESTION # 15

What are two advantages of using an Agile Project Management tool? Choose 2 answers

- A. Improve governance with gate steps in development
- B. Better relationships with business stakeholders
- C. Increased visibility into sprint and project status
