VMware Avi Load Balancer 30.x Administrator Sample Questions (Q54-Q59):

NEW QUESTION # 54

How does a distributed data plane architecture, like Avi's, enhance fault isolation compared to a traditional active/standby pair of monolithic load balancers?

- A. The failure of a single Service Engine typically only affects the specific applications running on it.
- B. All Service Engines share the same memory space, so a failure in one causes all others to fail.
- C. A distributed data plane has a single, centralized point of failure.
- D. A software bug in a Service Engine can potentially impact all applications across the entire environment.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 55

An organization is deploying Avi into a secure vSphere environment. The security policy requires that all infrastructure components, including Avi Service Engines, use static IP addresses assigned from a central IPAM system. How can an administrator configure an Avi vCenter cloud to support this while still leveraging full automation? (Select all that apply.)

- A. Leave the 'Management Network' IP subnet information blank in the Avi cloud configuration.
- B. Populate the IP address subnet details for the SE management network within the Avi cloud configuration.
- C. Select or create an IPAM profile for the management network that is configured for static IP allocation.
- D. Configure the Service Engine management network in Avi to use DHCP.
- E. In the Network configuration for the vCenter cloud, check the "Static" box and enter a pool of IP addresses for SE management.
- F. After the cloud is created, pre-create 'Service Engine' objects under Infrastructure and manually assign an IP to each.

Answer: B,E

NEW QUESTION # 56

Which feature provides global load balancing across multiple data centers?

- A. DNS Service
- B. NAT Gateway
- C. GSLB
- D. VRRP

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 57

Which component in the Avi architecture hosts Virtual IP addresses?

- A. API server
- B. Single Controller node
- C. Controller cluster
- D. Service Engine

Answer: D

Explanation:

In Avi Load Balancer architecture, the Controller provides management, control-plane functions, configuration, analytics coordination, and automation, while the Service Engines provide the distributed data plane. Virtual Services advertise a Virtual IP address and one or more ports, but the traffic is actually processed by Service Engines. Broadcom documentation describes the Avi Service Engine as being programmed by the Avi Controller to advertise Virtual IP addresses. This means the VIP is not hosted directly by the API server, the Controller cluster, or a single Controller node. Those components manage and configure the system, but client traffic to the VIP is received and processed by the Service Engine data plane. Therefore, the architectural component that hosts Virtual IP addresses is the Service Engine.

NEW QUESTION # 58

Which analytics capability is built into Avi?

- A. Packet capture storage only
- B. Real-time application analytics
- C. NetFlow export only
- D. Basic traffic logs

Answer: B
